COLLEGE DISPLAY AT ILLINOIS CONFERENCE

MacMURRAY PROFESSOR WINS AWARD

Looking over his paper on financing of municipal government is Dr. Victor H. Sheppard, above, Professor of Government at MacMurray College. He has just received word that his study was among 50 selected from 1238 entrants throughout the free world in competition on "Problems of United States Economic Development."

Judging and selection of papers was done by the national Committee for Economic Development Advisory Board, with names and identification of entrants deleted from their studies, to insure utmost fairness. Dr. Sheppard, whose 2,000-word study will be paperbound and published as part of Volumes I and II of "Problems in U. S. Economic Development," joins three Illinois winners. They include Vice President of International Harvester, an Economics professor at the University of Illinois, and the Director of Purchases of Abbott Laboratories in Chicago.

"Naturally, I was pleased and gratified to receive the award, and the professional recognition accompanying it," Dr. Sheppard said. A substantial cash prize accompanied the award.

Writing on what he thought would be the most important economic problem to be faced by the U. S. in the next 20 years, Dr. Sheppard pointed to the financing of municipal governments. He emphasized problems facing government relative to personnel and tax resources.

"The evidence seems to point to mounting municipal costs," he writes. It seems equally clear that competent administrative personnel is sought by private enterprise, and that cities must make it more attractive to prospective employees to enter the municipal service. One of the principal ways is to pay attractive salaries. This means more revenue, and so the cycle goes merrily around. It is equally clear that certain staple sources of revenue are being increasingly used. Cigarettes, motor fuels, retail sales, theater tickets, corporate income, underwent tax increases in a half dozen states in 1936."

Dr. Sheppard believes that it is an open question as to how much more taxing the commodities will stand.

"Perhaps the only way to answer this question is to wait 10 years and see how much they did stand," he writes. "We may well expect an increasing number of payroll, utility, and business taxes on the municipal level. Altogether, the prospect is not bright, and citizens of urban areas must be thinking about the perplexing problem of adequate municipal revenue for an ever-expanding list of services. Real property, sales, tobacco, motor fuels, and perhaps payrolls, with some franchise tax on utilities, would seem to be the only sources that one can see at the present time."

There are three ways of testing whether a cake is done: a wire cake tester or a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean; the cake has shrunk slightly from the sides of the pan; the top surface of the cake springs back when touched lightly with a finger.

Franklin Bible School Begins Monday, June 16

FRANKLIN—The Vacation Bible School will begin on Monday, June 16th at 9 a. m. DST at the Methodist church in Franklin. The Christian, Baptist, Durbin and Franklin Methodist churches are all uniting in this work for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy of Sparta, Ill., will be here to direct the work and will be assisted by adult workers from each of the churches above. Over 130 boys and girls and young people of the community have registered for the work.

Any other children that have not registered are welcome to attend.

W.S.C.S. Meets
The W.S.C.S. of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Dahman Wednesday afternoon with 13 members and 13 guests attending. Mrs. Whitlock called the meeting to order and roll call was answered by naming a Missionary Item of Interest.

Miss Maude VanWinkle had charge of the devotions and Mrs. Ralph Dahman had the program substituting for Mrs. Carlos Roberts. The subject was "Ever Widening Circles in Mission." Mrs. Dahman was assisted by Mrs. Clarence Jewsbury.

The group all sang. More Love to Thee, Love Lifted Me, and Jesus Shall Reign, during the meeting.

Guests from the Evening Circle were Mrs. Walter White, Mrs. Nelson Seymour and Mrs. Gus Nelly. Lovely refreshments was served by the hostesses. Mrs. Dahman was assisted by Miss Annie Ranson during the social hour.

The next meeting will be July 9th when they meet to clean the church.

Elect Lion Officers
The following officers were elected at the regular meeting of the Lions Club on Monday evening: President, William Havercraft; 1st Vice-president, Wilburn Kinnett; 2nd Vice-president, James Adkins; 3rd Vice-president, Leroy Sweet; Secretary, C. Donald Ransdall Jr.; Treasurer, Darrell Smith; Tail Twister, Byron Smith; Lion Tamer, Gus Kelly. New directors elected are Ralph Johnson and Fred Bergschneider. All new officers will take over in July.

Diced pared knob celery (also called celery root and celeriac) will need to be cooked for about 20 minutes in boiling water. After it is drained and chilled, it is delicious mixed with homemade mayonnaise and served as an hors d'oeuvre or as a salad.

FIFTY ATTEND ORGAN WORKSHOP

ASHLAND MAN LUCKY FATHER OF YEAR

The Lucky Father of the Year is John W. Brown, farmer, living on Ashland route one. Mr. Brown and his wife have seven children. He was nominated for the honor by his eldest son, Jimmy, shown above with a younger brother, Johnny, six. Mayor Robert DuBois is left, Mr. Brown center and Gene Cook, chairman of the Jacksonville Associated Merchants of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce is right. Other children in the Brown family are Susanne, 12; Sarah, 8; Patricia, 4; Rita, 3 and Jane 8 months.

The grateful winner stated Saturday morning, "It was very nice my children entered my picture in the contest and it is a thrill to be selected the Lucky Father of the Year. I want to thank all of the business people in Jacksonville who made this possible."

Gene Cook announced a total of 35 pictures were submitted in the contest by children of fathers in the Jacksonville trade area. Because of storms in the Ashland area no phone contact was made with Mr. Brown to notify him of his good fortune. Late Friday evening the Chamber office located at Joe Denham, plant manager at Kordie, who graciously drove over and notified his neighbor of his good fortune. Mr. Brown received 25 gifts from Jacksonville merchants.

Stress U.S. Need For Water To Woodson Club

The monthly meeting of the Woodson Men's Club was held Thursday, June 12 in the basement of the Presbyterian Church with 27 members present.

Following the meal, the business meeting was conducted at which time it was decided to order 41 tickets to the University of Illinois homecoming football game which will be played October 25 against Michigan State.

After the business meeting George Trull, Morgan county farm adviser, was introduced. He gave a talk on the expanded use of water. Today on the average, a person will use from 50 to 60 gallons of water a day. Only a few years ago this average was only 3 to 5 gallons per person.

He also stressed man's need for water by pointing out that down through the ages man has settled where water was plentiful.

Following Mr. Trull's talk the meeting was adjourned. The program committee consisted of Wallace Hemmrough, chairman, C. J. Longman and Harold Sooy.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, July 10 at the Christian church.

Police, Firemen Complete Course

CARROLLTON—Thirty-five members of the Carrollton Auxiliary Police, Carrollton city police and firemen from the Carrollton, Kane, Greenfield and Roodhouse fire departments completed a 12 hours course in Explosive Ordnance Reconnaissance Thursday evening at the Robin Hood Country Club which was given by Captain Knapp of Port Leonard Wood, assisted by S.F.C. Glassford and S.C. Connelly, also of Port Leonard Wood.

The men completing the course will receive certificates from the 5th Army Headquarters in Chicago and will be registered with the Army as Army Reconnaissance Agents. The final session was held at Robin Hood and was followed by a fish supper which was attended by approximately 50 interested men.

In the group Thursday evening was the Mayor and five city officials from the town of Ashland who are planning a Civil Defense program and the organization of an Auxiliary Police and who were cited by the state Civil Defense officials to visit the Carrollton Civil Defense setup and see one of the finest of its type in the state.

Harold Pruitt, county head of the Civil Defense program, George McDonough, chief of police of the city of Carrollton and Sgt. Lavern Halbert of the Carrollton City police who has been instructing the Auxiliary Police, have worked in close cooperation with city and county authorities and by so doing have prepared a well trained group of extra police in time of emergency and have also received a quantity of Civil Defense equipment which would be most valuable in time of necessity.

4-H Club Activities

The June 7 meeting of the Peppy Peppers was held at the home of Cheryl McDaniel. Leslie Colclasure, president of the club, called the meeting to order with the pledges to the American and 4-H flags being led by Wilma Losh and Cheryl McDaniel.

Carol Flynn called roll. "A report on Steven Foster." The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting to the 19 members present.

Diane Erwin gave a demonstration, "I Make A Plain Seam." Judy Stout showed the group how she puts in a row of stitching to turn a fold.

Cheryl McDaniel gave a demonstration, "Funny Cake." Sharon Coats, "Snickerdoodles." Janice Surratt told the importance of pressing; Joyce Stout told what precautions to take with campfires, trash fires, paper and cloth.

Special numbers were given by Susan Johnson and Cheryl McDaniel.

The group elected Cheryl McDaniel for the Peppy Peppers candidate for "Miss Morgan County Fair."

Refreshments were served by Cheryl McDaniel and Sharon Coats.

Fold a cup of shredded green cabbage, a half cup of diced cucumber and a slivered pimiento into slightly thickened lemon-flavored gelatin that has been dissolved in two cups of very hot water. Serve on salad greens with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

MARILYN VISITS WOMAN'S CLUB

Baptist Assn. Holds Centennial Memorial Service

VIRGINIA — The interesting program for the Centennial Memorial Service of the Sandy Creek Baptist Association was held June 12 at Mt. Zion Camp Ground Church. The morning program opened with a song and a period of devotion preceded the sermon by Rev. Harley Ford, of Pearl. Special music followed the sermon and recognition of ministers, testimonies and the offering. Dr. Noel Taylor, of Carbondale, State secretary of the Association, delivered a short sermon before the basket dinner and time of fellowship.

The afternoon session was opened at 1 o'clock with devotionals conducted by Elder V. H. Bentley, missionary of White Hall. Elder Perry Sherwin, clerk, of Roodhouse, gave some informative and interesting historical data.

The offering and special music preceded the recognition of ministers and testimonies. Dr. James M. Baldwin of Carbondale delivered the afternoon sermon, after which adjournment was made until the evening service.

A most enjoyable song service, under the direction of the Sandy Creek Youth Organization, opened the evening program. There were 37 churches represented and the choir was made up of singers from all churches. Before the sermon by Elder Kenneth Day, of Roodhouse, there was a period of devotion. Music and an offering preceded the fine sermon delivered by Rev. William H. Spencer, of Jacksonville.

The moderator was Rev. Ollie H. Phillips, of Roodhouse. One hundred seventy-three were registered, 28 ministers and 37 churches were represented. Those attending from the Virginia Baptist church were Rev. and Mrs. Otis Meadows and daughters, Cecil Carpenter and Celen Harbin. Rev. Meadows is pastor of the Virginia church.

Changes In Mission Field Topic For Bluffs WSCS

BLUFFS—The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Bluffs Methodist Church met in regular session Thursday afternoon with fifteen members present. Mrs. M. C. Parker led devotion. "Changes in Mission Field" was the topic in a most interesting manner. They depicted the changes that have taken place in the various mission fields and also the ideas of what a missionary's life is like, their duties and obligations.

Mrs. Harold Oakes presided at the business session. Roll call was answered with a Bible verse with "Joy." Reports of various secretaries were given. Mrs. Oakes appointed the committee to serve the Bluffs Civic Club when asked: Mrs. Norris Whorton, Mrs. John Pine, Mrs. Paul B. Smith, Mrs. Fay Main, Mrs. M. C. Parker, Mrs. Cornelia Leonard, Mrs. Carl Arnold and Mrs. Margaret Watson.

The supply askings were received but action is being deferred to the next meeting. The budget for the coming year was read by the treasurer, Mrs. Guss Andres. Announcement was made of the educational seminar to be held in Pittsfield on July 9. Mrs. Guss Andres plans to represent the organization at the School of Missions to be held on the campus of Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington the week of June 24.

Mrs. Oakes named committees for the year as follows: program, Mrs. Margaret Watson, Mrs. Clyde Arnold, Mrs. Jane Woodson, Mrs. John Pine, Mrs. Ben Placke, Mrs. Donald Merris; finance, Mrs. Guss Andres, Mrs. Floyd Hart, Mrs. Donald Merris, Mrs. Clyde Arnold.

Local church activities, Mrs. N. Whorton, Mrs. M. C. Parker.

Mrs. Floyd Hart, Mrs. Guss Andres, sunset mothers, Mrs. Carl Arnold, Mrs. Clyde Arnold; cards for the sick, Mrs. Guss Andres, Mrs. E. C. Albright; membership, Mrs. John Pine, Mrs. Ben Placke and every member; music, Mrs. Merton Pond, Mrs. Donald Merris and Mrs. P. H. Vannier.

The meeting was closed with a Spiritual Thought by Mrs. Jane Woodson. Mrs. Floyd Hart read a thought provoking verse.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Nettie Dugan and Mrs. Lyle Bates. Mrs. Bates was unable to attend the meeting because of illness.

Hostesses for the July meeting are Mrs. M. C. Parker and Mrs. Orville Gathard.

Chickens probably were the first birds domesticated by ancient man.

Dr. And Mrs. Marston To Be Honored At Reception Tonight

At the closing session of the annual meeting of the Illinois Conference in Bloomington, Dr. Frank Marston was reappointed to the pastorate of Grace Methodist Church, Today begins his fifteen years of service to the church and community. This is more than twice as long as any pastor, and five times longer than the average pastorate during the 108 years history of the church.

The members of Grace Church are very pleased that it was possible for Dr. Marston to be reappointed, as unanimously requested by the Official Board.

DR. FRANK MARSTON

During the years Dr. Marston has served in Grace Church he has also taken a very active part in many community projects. He is an active member of the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club, a 32nd degree Mason, a past Worthy Patron of the Jacksonville Ministerial Association, chairman of the Ecumenical Committee of the Jacksonville Council of Churches and chairman of the Committee on Institutions of the Jacksonville Ministerial Association.

Dr. Marston is very much interested in the children and youth of the community. Grace Church, under his leadership, sponsors both Boy Scout Troop 107 and an Explorer Post; conducts a Junior Church, which had as its first leader, Mrs. Marston; and both Junior and Senior Youth Fellowship groups.

His accomplishments in strengthening the work of the church have been many and varied. His sermons continue to be challenging and inspiring and the membership of the church continues to increase under his leadership.

The Marston's many friends feel that their return to Jacksonville is a great contribution to the religious and civic life of this community.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service cordially invites all members and friends to an informal reception in the church parlors, tonight, Sunday, June 15, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Norman Seymours Hosts At Family Dinner Sunday

FRANKLIN—Mr. and Mrs. Norman Seymour entertained Sunday at a family dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cottay of Chicago. The Cottay's have bought a grocery store in Hot Springs, Ark. and are moving there in about two weeks.

Other guests attending were Mrs. Lucy Jolly of Waverly, Mr. and Mrs. Oyer Deatherage of Beardstown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Deatherage and family of Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Seymour and Gary of Macomb, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Zenge, Miss Judy Zenge, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hocking of Jacksonville and Mrs. Vera Seymour. Some were evening guests. Mads Cottay, Jolly and Deatherage are sisters of Mrs. Norman Seymour.

Attend Graduation

Several attended the Commencement at Illinois College in the College Grove on the campus on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Those graduating were Miss Zoe Kilver, David Hart and Stephen Ramsey.

All are graduates of the Franklin High School.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ransdell attended the commencement of the University of Illinois at the Memorial stadium, Sat. June 14th. Their son, John Presley Ransdell, was one of 2,958 candidates for a degree. He is also a graduate of the Franklin high school.

Rain Fuzzles Plans

The Homemakers' Circle had planned a sight touring trip and dinner at New Salem Park on Tuesday for the closing meeting of the year. It so happened that was the big rain in and around the park so only one car load arrived there at noon.

Mrs. Charles Gibson driving her car, taking with her Mrs. Milton Seymour, Mrs. Mae VanWinkle, Miss Maude VanWinkle and Mrs. Nellie Gould. Although it rained all the time the group was there the sight seeing tour was cancelled but we all enjoyed our dinner at the New Salem Lodge dining room.

From the dining room window we could see concrete steps going up a hill and a dike broke above causing the water to flow down the steps.

Franklin Notes

Favre Gould drove up yesterday and spent the day with his mother Mrs. O. W. Gould. They have moved to their cottage at Chautauqua, Ill., to spend the summer months.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Weldon Becker, Jacksonville route 2 and Judy Black, Jacksonville, were married at New Salem Park, Norman Clyde Bettis, Palmyra, Ill., and Sandra June Harney, Waverly.

Wayne B. Anderson, Aurora, Ill., and Onalee Eberhardt, 232 Prospect street.

Pike Youth Will Study Civics At Honor Class

PITTSFIELD—John W. (Jack) Barber, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barber, has arrived home to spend his summer vacation from college with his parents.

He will return in the fall to Fulton, Mo. for his senior year at Westminster College, where he is majoring in Accounting and is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

JACK BARBER

The young student had the good fortune to be selected and recommended by the faculty at Westminster to attend the Washington Semester Program at the American University in Washington, D. C., together with some 90 to 100 other students selected from seventy colleges across the nation for their outstanding collegiate record to attend the University for one semester of four months beginning February 1st.

Will Meet Many

For the young Pittsfield student it was a privilege to have this opportunity to learn about the government of the United States at first hand, to meet national leaders, including senators and representatives.

To attend sessions of congress committee meetings and hearings, and observe the processes of national policy making, attend seminars in the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the government.

Take field trips to senate committee meetings and to the Supreme Court, where the group of students gained valuable information and a better understanding of all services of the government, covering international relations and how foreign policies are made.

The vast amount of information received during the Semester Program committee hearing, floor debates, trials in the District Court and observing those at work in and around all government agencies, resulting in a well rounded understanding of how the United States government functions.

David Goodell, of Winchester, a student in Southwest College in Kansas, was also one of those selected to attend the Washington Semester Program this year.

SHORTHORN QUEEN

CAROL McDEVITT

FRANKLIN—Miss Carol McDevitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDevitt of Franklin, has been nominated as a candidate for Illinois Shorthorn Lassie Queen to be chosen at the Shorthorn Picnic to be held Sunday, June 22, at the William Waters farm at Allerton, Ill.

Carol will be a Senior next fall at Western Illinois University at Macomb. Her major is Home Economics.

The McDevitt family lives on a 422 acre farm three miles west of Franklin, and has a herd of 150 Shorthorns. Her father has been a Shorthorn breeder since 1929. Carol has her own herd of 16 Shorthorns, which she has shown at several fairs. She has been in 4-H nine years and has been a Junior Leader.

The girl chosen Illinois Shorthorn Queen will attend the state fair and the Chicago International Livestock Exhibition. She will compete in Chicago for the National Southern Lassie Queen title, and the grand prize is a trip to Scotland for the Berth show in February.

BUTLER WILL FILED

Children of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Butler will share her property under terms of her will, which has been filed for probate. They are Martha, Elizabeth Summers, William Bryan, John Clark, and James Russell Butler.

Mrs. Summers was named executor of the will, which bears the date Nov. 25, 1946, witnessed by Catherine T. Shanahan and R. E. Harmon.

Wheat Support Level Based On Quota Vote

The level of price support for the 1959 wheat crop will be determined by the outcome of the June 20 referendum on marketing quotas for next year's crop. Wilbur C. Williams, chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, declared Saturday.

"Aside from a choice between a Marketing Quota Program and no Marketing Quotas, the big issue to be decided by the June 20 vote will be the level of price support available for the 1959 wheat crop," the chairman stated.

"Acreage allotments will remain in effect no matter how the vote goes, as a means of determining eligibility for support."

As announced on May 1, price support for the 1959 wheat crop will be available in the commercial wheat area at a national average of at least $1.81 per bushel, or 75 percent of parity, if marketing quotas for the 1959-crop of wheat are approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum. This minimum will not be reduced, but may be increased if a combination of the wheat parity price and wheat supply relationships as of July 1, 1959 indicate a higher support price.

If quotas for the 1959 wheat crop are not approved by at least two-thirds of the voters, however, the support level in the commercial wheat producing area will drop to about $1.20 per bushel, or 50 percent of parity, as directed by law. Compliance with allotments would continue to be a condition of eligibility for the lower price support.

Those farmers who vote in the referendum will be the ones who decide whether or not marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1959 wheat crop, Chairman Williams points out.

All farmers are eligible to vote if they will share in the 1959 wheat crop from a farm in the commercial wheat area on which the wheat harvested for grain in 1959 will exceed 15 acres and provided they did not take part in the 1958 feed wheat program.

Gelatin desserts usually need from two to four hours in the refrigerator, after they are prepared, for setting.

To Celebrate Mass Of Thanksgiving

BISHOP OF SPRINGFIELD

Ceremony At 10:30 A. M. Tomorrow Will Observe Diamond Jubilee Of Reverend Monsignor F. F. Formaz

His Excellency, the Most Reverend William A. O'Connor, D.D., Bishop of Springfield-in-Illinois, will come to Jacksonville tomorrow to celebrate with a Mass of Thanksgiving the Diamond Jubilee of Right Reverend Monsignor Francis F. Formaz, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour for the past 43 years.

Bishop O'Connor will be assisted by the Right Reverend Monsignor Michael Owen Driscoll, Chancellor of the diocese, and the Reverend Leonard Rathgeb, formerly assistant at the Church of Our Saviour, now pastor of St. Mary's Church at Westwoods.

Reverend John Spreen, assistant at St. Peter's Church in Quincy, will preach the sermon. Father Spreen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spreen of this city, is one of Our Saviour's native sons, having received his early education at Our Saviour's Grade School and Routh High School under the supervision of Msgr. Formaz. In 1953, he said his first Mass in the Church of Our Saviour.

Reverend Anthony Chapinis, assistant pastor at the Church of Our Saviour, who is in charge of the parish while Msgr. Formaz is a patient at Our Saviour's Hospital, has been designated director of the celebration by Bishop O'Connor. Father Chapinis has been assisted in planning for the event by various members of the parish.

The Unique
OPEL

A General Motors car designed and built in Germany

UNIQUE among the imports, the German-designed, German-built Opel is here to show its surprising qualities. It's at your Buick dealer's now.

It is typically Continental in frugality of operation—but well up to American traffic pace with its overhead valve engine of big bore and short stroke.

It is trim in weight—yet its stamina has won it Europe's tribute: "The King of Dependability."

And despite its modest price, the Opel is handsomely finished and fitted, as the panel will tell you.

When you drive the Opel, you get a feeling of perfection. Synchronized helical gears ghost into place when you shift. Steering is precise and effortless through recirculating ball bearings. Cornering qualities are excellent with knuckle-joint front wheel suspension and dual control arms.

Here is a man's car in every precision-fitted inch. Its smartness, too, gives it a distinct prominence among all small-car imports.

You must see the Opel. You'll like it. When you drive the Opel, you'll love it.

Damage Suit

PITTSFIELD — Mrs. Marjorie Evans, administrator of the estate of Frank H. Evans, deceased, has filed a damage suit in the office of Circuit Clerk Austin Altizer, Jr., against Ray Cannon of Pleasant Hill for the amount of $32,075.50. The suit arises out of an accident on route 104 north of Perry on March 18, 1958 in which her husband Frank Evans of Quincy, and Frank Doby of Pittsfield were killed. It is alleged that the death of Frank Evans has deprived the plaintiff and her son Robert Kent Evans of their livelihood, for which $30,000 damages is sought, and the sum of $2,075.50 damages for the total loss of their car.

WARM REQUEST
ROSVELL, N.M. (AP) — When Gus H. Winter died at the age of 78, he ordered his $70,000 estate divided among local civic and charitable organizations over the next 30 years. He made one specific request: At Christmas each year the Masonic lodge was to provide two suits of long underwear to needy elderly men in the area.

Add fennel seeds to applesauce or fried apples to be served with pork. This spice is somewhat like anise in flavor.

Barbara Meeks Bride
Of Macoupin Airman

GREENFIELD—Miss Barbara Sue Meeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Von Meeks, Greenfield, became the bride of Airman Second Class Robert J. Burnstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burnstein, of Chesterfield, in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Michael's church by Rev. Joseph H. Boll before an altar decorated with roses.

Misses Frances and Elizabeth Boll sang "Pans Angelicus" and "O Beautiful Mother," accompanied by Miss Loretta Hayes.

Miss Barbara Smith served as maid of honor and Donald Lee Burnstein served his brother as best man.

Ushers were Jerry Lamberti and Norman Bowman.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a nylon and lace ballerina length gown designed with a scalloped square neckline, long moulded bodice and bouffant skirt with pleated front nylon net insert.

Her fingertip length veil of net attached to a white velvet headpiece was decorated with seed pearls. She carried a white mother prayer book topped with an orchid fastened with white streamers and lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Smith appeared in a princess crinoline gown of romance blue crystalized fashioned with empire waistline and cap sleeves.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church family hall. The serving table was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and was flanked with tall yellow tapers.

Mrs. Charles Bradley and Mrs. Don Heilman, of Alton; Misses Joan Ellis, Darlene Miller and Barbara Burnstein, sister of the groom, assisted at the reception. Miss Diana Bates was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Roberta Whitlock, the gift table.

Airman and Mrs. Burnstein are both graduates of Northwestern high school, Palmyra. He is a member of the U. S. Air Force stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif.

Following a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks region in Missouri, the couple left for San Francisco, Calif., where they will reside. Relatives and friends attended the wedding and reception from Alton, East Alton, St. Louis, California, White Hall, Carrollton and Kemper.

Sorority Chapters Entertain Guests.

Wilma Nichols, retiring president of Gamma chapter introduced the toastmistress, Della Simmons, who graciously welcomed the guests. Mrs. Marion Chase Schaeffer, Honorary Member and Social Sponsor gave the response.

Mrs. Sherwood Eddy was introduced and told of her experiences on trips to India and China. Mrs. Eddy, a world traveler, is well informed of the condition of many countries and the problems of their peoples. She spoke of the poverty of the people in many of the countries she has visited, but stated they are also more content and peaceful in their home life than we. Their family life more closely knit than ours and in many countries every small detail pertaining to the family is discussed with all its members.

Mrs. Eddy stated American women have made great strides in the business world and have been accepted within the past few years in offices and positions where men have always held sway. The American woman's freedom of speech, right to vote and control of approximately 90% of the wealth of the country should not be taken lightly. She stressed we should use this confidence to the utmost of our ability and should be content and do our best to uphold this confidence.

A yellow rose, the sorority flower, was presented to each guest at the close of the program. The committee in charge consisted of Martha June Svob, Connie Lucas, Betty Taylor, Verna Butcher, Mary Margaret Withee and Della Simmons.

Zebulon M. Pike was a salaried employee of the Federal Government when he discovered in 1896 the famous peak in Colorado which bears his name.

DAR Chapter Hears Richard Grunz Speak

The Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the Chapter Home on Thursday evening, June 12. A potluck supper was served to members and their many guests.

The centerpiece was a beautiful arrangement of red, white and blue garden flowers in keeping with the Flag Day theme. Supper was served by candlelight. Fried chicken was furnished by the hostesses to complete a bountiful meal.

Hostesses were Mrs. John May, Mrs. C. C. Kirchhoefer, Mrs. Joe Boyle, Mrs. Porter Leach, Miss Margaret Faye Hopper, Miss Lillian Carter, Miss Marjorie Taylor, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Lenah Hill and Miss Ruth Dunlap.

The theme for the June program was "Our Musical Heritage." Mrs. George L. Drennan, regent, opened the meeting at 8 p.m. Mrs. Arthur Ewert, chaplain, gave the invocation. The group joined in singing the National Anthem. Mrs. Alta Elsh, at the piano.

The program chairman, Mrs. Albert Powers, introduced Mrs. Alta Elsh, music therapist at the State Hospital who accompanied George Winston whose singing delighted the audience. His selections included "I Hear America Singing," "This is My Country," four selections from "Oklahoma," "One Alone." An Irish comedy song with gestures was his encore.

Grunz Speaks

The speaker for the meeting was Richard Grunz. Using the Flag Day theme he stated today's problem as "What we must do to keep the liberty we have already gained." Mr. Grunz closed his thought provoking speech with the explanation of why the heritage behind the flag is more important to all than the flag itself. It is the symbol of our freedom.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie. Three board members were nominated and elected: house chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoate; grounds chairman, Mrs. Charles T. Bowen; and tablet and endowment chairman, Mrs. Joseph Groat.

Mrs. William H. Jones, national defense chairman, gave a report "The Flag is a Symbol." The comparison and uses of the United Nations Flag with our own Flag was explained.

The Regent reported on May 26 she had entertained 27 fourth grade pupils of the Lafayette school as the Chapter House, and she is very proud of the letters of thanks from the pupils telling what they had enjoyed seeing most at the home.

Mrs. Paul Black, past regent, conducted the installation of the new officers: regent, Mrs. George L. Drennan; chaplain, Mrs. Arthur Ewert; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie; treasurer, Mrs. W. Earl Rexroat. This was the last meeting for this season. The tentative date for the next meeting is Sept. 9.

Former Carrollton Couple Married Sixty-Two Years

CARROLLTON—Mr. and Mrs. U. D. Clark, formerly of this city, who are now making their home in a Masonic Home in Sullivan were guests of honor at a dinner in Mattoon Thursday given by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Clark of this city and Mrs. Leta Thompson of Mt. Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Clark were married in Mattoon 62 years ago. After dinner they visited the home where they first began housekeeping.

Mr. Clark is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elias Clark of Wayne county and his bride of 62 years ago was Miss Bertha Scott, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott also of Wayne county. When living in Mattoon Clark was a timber buyer for L. D. Leach. They came to Carrollton in 1912 where Clark was one of the builders of the C and A railroad from Eldred to Macoupin creek which was later sold to the GM & O railroad company.

Only two of their five children survive and both were with them Thursday. They have seven grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Moose Lodge Distributes Free Swimming Tickets

PITTSFIELD — The Moose Lodge of Pittsfield is offering free swimming tickets to their members for all of their children up to 15 years of age, good at the swimming pool in King Park June 15 to June 20. The tickets are being distributed by the club steward, Lew Rowe, at the Moose Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stauffer of Springfield have moved into their new home on South Illinois street. Mr. Stauffer is a salesman for the Massey Implement Company. Mrs. Stauffer is the former Freda Fitzpatrick. Both are graduates of the Pittsfield high school with the class of 1925 and are well remembered here.

Auto Accident Friday Injures Two Children

Two persons were injured slightly in an auto accident Friday at the corner of South church street and West Morgan when a car driven by Wayne Henry Aring and a car driven by Florence L. Link, both of Jacksonville collided at the intersection. John Aring, age 2, received a bump on the head and Karen Aring, age 6½, suffered a nose bleed. Mrs. Aring was taken to Passavant hospital for examination but no injuries were found.

The Aring car spun around, leaped over the curb and came to rest about 45 feet south of the intersection. Both the Aring and the Link cars were towed away. The Aring car received damage to the right doors and the right rear wheel and fender; it was towed to Brunetti's garage. The Link car was damaged on the front fenders, bumper, radiator and grille. It was towed to the John Ellis garage.

Pike Resident Files $32,075 Damage Suit

PITTSFIELD — Mrs. Marjorie Evans, administrator of the estate of Frank H. Evans, deceased, has filed a damage suit in the office of Circuit Clerk Austin Alizer, Jr., against Ray Cannon of Pleasant Hill for the amount of $32,075.50. The suit arises out of an accident on Route 104 north of Perry on March 18, 1958 in which her husband Frank Evans of Quincy, and Frank Doby of Pleasant Hill were killed. It is alleged that the death of Frank Evans has deprived the plaintiff and her son Robert Kent Evans of their livelihood, for which $30,000 damages is sought, and the sum of $2,075.50 damages for the total loss of their car.

Barbara Weeks Bride Of Macoupin Airman

GREENFIELD—Miss Barbara Sue Weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Von Meeks, Greenfield, became the bride of Airman Second Class Robert J. Burnstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burnstein, of Chesterfield, in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Michael's church by Rev. Joseph H. Boll before an altar decorated with roses.

Misses Frances and Elizabeth Boll sang "Panis Angelicus" and "O Beautiful Mother," accompanied by Miss Loretta Hayes.

Miss Barbara Smith served as maid of honor and Donald Lee Burnstein served his brother as best man.

Ushers were Jerry Lambert and Norman Bowman.

The bride given in marriage, by her father, wore a nylon and lace ballerina length gown designed with a scalloped square neckline, long moulded bodice and bouffant skirt with pleated front nylon net insert.

Her fingertip length veil of net attached to a white velvet headpiece was decorated with seed pearls. She carried a white mother prayer book topped with an orchid fastened with white streamers and Lilies of the Valley. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Smith appeared in a princess designed gown of romance blue crystalite fashioned with empire waistline and cap sleeves.

A matching bow of crystalite ending in skirt-length streamers enhanced the skirt back. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations with romance blue streamers.

The bride's mother wore a white and black dress with black accessories and the groom's mother, navy blue with white accessories, and corsages of pink carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church family hall. The serving table was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and was flanked with tall yellow tapers.

Mrs. Charles Bradley and Mrs. Don Heilbrunn, of Alton; Misses Joan Ellis, Darlene Miller and Barbara Brunstein, sister of the groom, assisted at the reception. Miss Diana Bates was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Roberta Whitlock, the gift table.

Airman and Mrs. Brunstein are both graduates of Northwestern high school, Palmyra. He is a member of the U. S. Air Force stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif.

Following a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks region in Missouri, the couple left for San Francisco, Calif., where they will reside. Relatives and friends attended the wedding and reception from Alton, East Alton, St. Louis, California, White Hall, Carrollton and Kemper.

Sorority Chapters Entertain Guests

Members of Gamma and Xi Alpha Upsilon chapters of Beta Sigma Phi entertained their mothers, sisters or guests at a dinner held at the Central Christian church.

Wilma Nichols, retiring president of Gamma chapter introduced the toastmistress, Della Simmons, who graciously welcomed the guests. Mrs. Marion Chase Schaeffer, Honorary Member and Social Sponsor gave the response.

Mrs. Sherwood Eddy was introduced and told of her experiences on trips to India and China. Mrs. Eddy, a world traveler, is well informed of the condition of the Board of Education at its Wednesday night meeting.

Dr. James B. Johnson, superintendent of the Alton schools informed the board that the Alton High athletic program is improving and expanding, and that Luketich, as athletic director will handle the details of the program, such as arranging schedules, planning travel, employing officials, managing tournaments, and other such work in connection with the athletic program.

This work, in the past, has been done in part by G. C. Davis, Alton High principal, and in part by coaches of the various sports, but the school administrators feel that Davis, as Alton High Administrator, should not be asked to devote so much time to the athletic program.

Luketich will continue to carry a full load of teaching assignments but will no longer be assistant coach in either football or basketball. Luketich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Luketich, of Roxana, and Mrs. Luketich is the former Barbara Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Shields, of Greenfield. The Luketichs have three children: Craig Michael, 7; Stanley James, 5; and Claire Ann, 2.

DAR Chapter Hears Richard Grunz Speak

The Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the Chapter Home on Thursday evening, June 12. A potluck supper was served to members and their many guests.

The centerpiece was a beautiful arrangement of red, white and blue garden flowers in keeping with the Flag Day theme. Supper was served by candlelight. Fried chicken was furnished by the hostesses to complete a bountiful meal.

Hostesses were Mrs. John May, chairman; Mrs. C. C. Kirchhoefer, Mrs. Joe Boyle, Mrs. Porter Leach, Miss Margaret Faye Hopper, Miss Lillian Carter, Miss Marjorie Taylor, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Lenah Hill and Miss Ruth Dunlap.

The theme for the June program was "Our Musical Heritage." Mrs. George L. Drennan, regent, opened the meeting at 8 p.m. Mrs. Arthur Ewert, chaplain, gave the invocation, followed with the pledge of allegiance led by Mrs. Albert Powers.

Mrs. Albert Powers, introduced Mrs. Alta Elsch, music therapist at the State Hospital who accompanied George Winston whose singing delighted the audience. His selections included "I Hear America Singing," "This is My Country," four selections from "Oklahoma," "One Alone." An Irish comedy song with gestures was his encore.

Grunz Speaks

The speaker for the meeting was Richard Grunz. Using the Flag Day theme he stated today's problem as "What we must do to keep the liberty we have already gained." Mr. Grunz closed his thought-provoking speech with the explanation of why the heritage behind the flag is more important to all than the flag itself. It is the symbol of our freedom.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie. Three board members were nominated and elected: house chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Mallico; grounds chairman, Mrs. Charles T. Bowen; and tablet and endowment chairman, Mrs. Joseph Groat.

Mrs. William H. Jones, national defense chairman, gave as her report "The Flag is a Symbol." The comparison and uses of the United Nations Flag with our own Flag was explained.

The Regent reported on May 26 she had entertained 27 fourth grade pupils of the Lafayette school as the Chapter House, and she is very proud of the letters of thanks from the pupils telling what they had enjoyed seeing most at the home.

Mrs. Paul Black, past regent, conducted the installation of the new officers: regent, Mrs. George L. Drennan; chaplain, Mrs. Arthur Ewert; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie; treasurer, Mrs. W. Earl Rexroat.

This was the last meeting for this season. The tentative date for the next meeting is Sept. 9.

Former Carrollton Couple Married Sixty-Two Years

CARROLLTON—Mr. and Mrs. U. D. Clark, formerly of this city, who are now making their home in a Masonic Home in Sullivan were guests of honor at a dinner in Mattoon Thursday given by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Clark of this city and Mrs. Leta Thompson of Mt. Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Clark were married in Mattoon 62 years ago.

After dinner they visited the home where they first began housekeeping. Mr. Clark is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elias Clark of Wayne county and his bride of 62 years ago was Miss Bertha Scott, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott also of Wayne county. When living in Mattoon Clark was a timber buyer for L. D. Leach. They came to Carrollton in 1912 where Clark was one of the builders of the C and A railroad from Eldred to Macoupin creek which was later sold to the GM & O railroad company.

Only two of their five children survive and both were with them Thursday. They have seven grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Stauffer is the former Freda Fitzpatrick. Both are graduates of the Pittsfield high school with the class of 1925 and are well remembered here.

Auto Accident Friday Injures Two Children

Two persons were injured slightly in an auto accident Friday at the corner of South church street and West Morgan when a car driven by Wayne Henry Aring and a car driven by Florence L. Link, both of Jacksonville collided at the intersection. John Aring, age 2, received a bump on the head and Karen Aring, age 6½, suffered a nose bleed. Mrs. Aring was taken to Passavant hospital for examination but no injuries were found.

The Aring car spun around, leaped over the curb and came to rest about 45 feet south of the intersection. Both the Aring and the Link cars were towed away. The Aring car received damage to the right doors and the right rear wheel and fender; it was towed to Brummett's garage. The Link car was damaged on the front fenders, bumper, radiator and grille. It was towed to the John Ellis garage.

Capt. Runkel and patrolman Armstrong assisted at the scene of the accident.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

I.C. HAS NEW DEAN

Dr. Ernest Hildner

Dr. Iver Yeager

Dr. L. Vernon Caine, president of Illinois College, has announced the retirement of Dr. Ernest G. Hildner as Dean of the College. He will continue his teaching duties on the campus as Professor of History and Geography.

At the same time Dr. Caine announced the appointment of Dr. Iver F. Yeager, formerly Professor of Religion and Philosophy at Missouri Valley College, to succeed Dr. Hildner as Dean.

Dr. Ernest Hildner came to Illinois College in 1936 from Western Illinois University to assume his duties as Dean of the College and Professor of History. He received his A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Michigan. At the annual Illinois College Alumni Association luncheon meeting during Commencement weekend the Association adopted a resolution honoring Dr. Hildner for his 20 years of service as Dean of the College. The Association also elected him as honorary member of the Alumni Association. At both the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees and of the faculty resolutions were also adopted paying tribute to Dr. Hildner's contributions to the good of the College.

Due in August

Dr. Iver Yeager received his secondary education in at the Newell, S. D., High School and was graduated from Macalester College in St. Paul with an A.B. degree summa cum laude in Philosophy in 1944. He received his A.M. degree in General Education in Religion in 1948 from the Chicago Theological Seminary and his Ph.D. degree in Constructive Theology in 1957 from the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. Dr. Yeager has taught at the College of Wooster and comes to Illinois College where he has been Professor of Religion and Philosophy.

Dr. Yeager, an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ (Congregational), has been minister to Presbyterian and Congregational churches at the University of Chicago and has frequently acted as supply minister in various churches. He has done much academic, personal and religious counseling among students. During World War II Dr. Yeager served as Communications on a destroyer in the Pacific area and held the rank of Lieutenant (jg).

Dr. Yeager is married and has three children. He and his family will arrive in Jacksonville about the first of August.

17 Students To Sail July 2 For Tour Of Theaters In Europe

Two Jacksonville area students at MacMurray College will be among 17 women who will sail July 2 from New York to spend two months touring and studying with the National Collegiate Players' Workshop tour.

Sondra Search, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Search, White Hall, and Janet Shumaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shumaker, Alexander, will be among 17 students led by Dr. Ray E. Holcombe, chairman of the MacMurray Speech and Theater Arts department.

Dr. Holcombe, who is sponsor of the MacMurray N.C.P. chapter, proved that theater activity is exceptional at MacMurray when he recruited 17 tour members while the remaining 56 national chapters contributed less than a quarter of that number.

The students, who are from Ohio, Connecticut, New York, Iowa, Michigan and Wyoming will include in their itinerary an extensive stay in Paris and France. They will make a four-day visit to the World's Fair in Brussels, a five-day visit in London, and tours to Edinburgh, and Pitlochry in the Scottish Highlands.

To Visit Ancestors' Home An interesting side-trip from Pitlochry will be made to Tullibardine, where the group will visit the castle of the Murray clan. This powerful Scottish clan of centuries ago were the ancestors of Senator James E. MacMurray, after whom the college was named. Their tartan—a red, blue, and green plaid—was adopted by MacMurray men as the official colors of the new MacMurray College for Men. The tartan is worn in the form of neckties for men, skirts for women, sports jackets, and as part of athletic uniforms.

The MacMurray group, which will also include Mrs. Holcombe as assistant leader, will spend four days at William Shakespeare's home, Stratford-on-Avon, where the members will not only see the famous Shakespearean plays but will meet the actors and producers. At Devon, England, they will attend three days of festivals and then take active part in the theater workshop at Chichester.

Here MacMurray students will engage in study and in acting and staging of plays under supervision of a distinguished faculty provided by the British Drama League. Eleven of the 17 MacMurray students will study a phase of theater and submit papers for credit. This is the first accrediting of study tours undertaken at the college. MacMurray thus joins the ranks of 114 colleges and universities offering such tours for credit.

New Berlin Band Parents Plan Ice Cream Social

NEW BERLIN—The Band Parents' Club of Community Unit 16 will sponsor an Ice Cream Social on Saturday, June 16, in Wabash Park, New Berlin. Serving will begin at 5:30 P.M. Ice cream, pie and cake and soft drinks will be served.

The band will play two concerts at 6:30 and again at 8 p.m. under the direction of their instructor Ralph Ashcraft. In case of rain, the social will be postponed.

The Knights of Columbus will hold their second annual chicken fry on Sunday, June 20, at the Sangamon County building, New Berlin. Serving will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. D.S.T.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Haury, who operated Haury's grocery here for the past six years, recently sold the business to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rust of Alton, who began operation of the store last week under the name of Rust's Grocery.

Mr. and Mrs. Rust and their two children have moved from Alton to the Dippel property here in the east part of town.

ASHLAND FIREMEN'S HOMECOMING BEGINS MONDAY FOR WEEK

ASHLAND—The Ashland volunteer firemen will hold their annual homecoming starting Monday, June 16 through Saturday, June 21. The Lindle Bros. carnival will be here with their many rides and concessions.

The firemen will operate a lunch counter and any other Ashland organization wishing to set up a stand is asked to contact Albert Yancy, fire chief. The carnival will be set up on the street starting at the postoffice corner and ending at the Ashland elevator.

The money realized from this annual affair is used to purchase new equipment for the fire department.

A good way to use leftover meat loaf is to cut it into small squares and layer it with leftover spaghetti and tomato sauce in a baking dish; sprinkle with grated cheese and heat in the oven.

District Officers At C.W.F. Installation

Wednesday evening, June 11, at Central Christian church, the Christian Woman's Fellowship entertained Mrs. Arthur Zimmerman of Harvel, Illinois, district representative of the CWF.

Mrs. Zimmerman spoke on Church Loyalty. The president, Mrs. Gladys Rust, presided. Mrs. Zimmerman installed the following officers: Mrs. J. D. Bunting and Mrs. J. Allen Biggs, receiving blue streamers for loyalty and truth.

Treasurer, Mrs. Roy Newberry, gold as a challenge to faithful stewardship; secretary, Mrs. Russell Vernor, red for steadfastness and accuracy.

Worship, Mrs. E. C. Slaughter, white for purity in life; study, Mrs. Gus Faust, green in expectancy for growth; service, Miss Opa Kehl, rose for hope.

During the program Mrs. Stella Hayden of California whistled two numbers self accompanied at the piano. Mrs. Hayden is a cousin of Mrs. Ruth Moxon of this city.

Mrs. Edward Garlich gave a beautiful religious program using as examples expressions of reports not found in books but in the hearts of people. Annual reports were given by chairmen and leaders.

At the close of the program re-

WOMAN'S WEST SIDE CLUB AT HOME OF MRS. MITCHELL

Mrs. Margaret Mitchell was hostess to the Woman's West Side club at her home, 745 W. Railroad St. The meeting opened by the president, Mrs. Laura Smith.

The group sang in unison the club song, followed by prayer. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite flower. After the business meeting the following guests were presented to the club by Mrs. Louisa Bundy: Mrs. Ruth Hill, Mrs. Gertrude Stewart, Mrs. Nina Douglas, Mrs. Mazie Young, Mrs. Lula Mitchell, Mrs. Catherine Britt.

Mrs. Lillian Malone, Mrs. Stella Brown, Mrs. Clementine Williams, Mrs. Frances Jordan, Mrs. Mary Allen, and Mrs. Thelma Wells.

Members and guests gathered on the lawn where tables were placed. Games were played and prizes were awarded. Refreshments were served.

Add brandy flavoring to a fine apricot preserve and use as a filling for spongecake layers; frost with whipped cream and garnish with chocolate sprinkles.

The Alexander Woman's Society of Christian Service met for the June meeting in the church basement. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Gladys Thompson, Mrs. Catherine Neal and Mrs. Sarah Harrison.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Frances Beerup, and opened with the group singing "Take the Name of Jesus with You." "The Lord's Prayer" was repeated in unison. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Zelma Dowell.

A moment of silent prayer was held for Mrs. Hazel Leonard, a former member, who recently passed away at Culbertson hospital in Rushville.

The annual treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Irene Cockin. Mrs. Sallie Stapleton presented the society with a quilt top and it was voted that the members meet at the church in the near future for an all day session of quilting and cutting carpet rags. It was also decided to have a silent auction at the August meeting. Mrs. Eva Lee Wright, Mrs. Grace Reiser and Mrs. Irene Cockin were appointed to have charge.

A communication was read from Chanute Base Foundation, Randolph, Ill., thanking the society for the homemade cookies which were recently sent to the base.

Mrs. Frances Beerup presented the program on "World Federation of Methodist Women."

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The meeting was attended by 13 members. Miss Jeannie Cass was a guest.

There will be no meeting in July.

Area People To Attend National Pi Beta Phi Meet

Pi Beta Phi fraternity, the first national college fraternity for women, will hold its 41st biennial convention July 22-28 at the New Ocean House at Swampscott, Mass. The Ocean House is one of the best known resort hotels on the eastern seaboard.

Mrs. Jean M. Spencer, president of the local alumnae chapter, will serve as official delegate from the Jacksonville area. Miss Amy B. Onken of Chapin, for whom the local group is named, was national grand president of Pi Beta Phi for many years. Other planning to attend the convention are Mrs. Perry Duncan, Province vice president and Mrs. Albert Sudbrink of Springfield.

In 1925 Calvin Coolidge established the Summer White House at Swampscott and the New Ocean House was designated as headquarters for the official staff.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill met at sea in 1941 for the signing of the Atlantic charter the New Ocean House acquired further prominence as the base of operations for the accompanying staff.

Woman's Club Presents Trophy For First Time

ASHLAND—For the first time in its history, the Ashland Woman's club awarded a trophy to a high school senior in recognition of outstanding achievement. The trophy was presented to Miss Beverly Plattner by Mrs. Walter Lohman, chairman of the department of education of the Woman's club.

The trophy, which was chosen by the education department as its project for the year, is symbolic of excellence in citizenship, scholarship, and in extra-curricular activities and will be awarded annually to a deserving senior.

Miss Plattner was active in all phases of the high school program and maintained excellent grades. She plans to enter Western Illinois State University at Macomb in the fall. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Plattner.

The members of the education committee are Mrs. Fred Walbaum, Mrs. L. E. Strubling, Mrs. Carl Weakley, Mrs. Rose Jokisch and Mrs. Myrtle Work.

1959 Conference To Jacksonville—Local Pastors Reappointed

Ministers of all three Jacksonville Methodist churches were reappointed to their pastorates for another year at the closing session of the Illinois Conference at Bloomington Friday night. One change was made in a parish served by local ministers, and there were changes in pastorates of several churches in the Jacksonville area.

Dr. J. Dewey Muir, superintendent of the Jacksonville District during the past three years, is beginning the fourth year of his six year appointment.

Dr. Muir extended an invitation to the Conference to hold its 1959 sessions in Jacksonville during the second week in June, which was accepted by the delegates. For a number of years Jacksonville and Bloomington have alternated in holding the Conference, which attracts about 1,000 ministers and lay delegates.

MacMurray College will be the scene of the 1959 Conference, as in years past.

Pastoral appointments were read by Bishop Charles W. Brashares for the 700 churches of the Illinois Conference at the session Friday night.

Begins 15th Year

Dr. Frank Marston was reappointed pastor of Grace Methodist church in this city to begin his fifteenth year, a record in the 108 years of the church. He has served more than twice as long as any other pastor at Grace church.

An informal reception for Dr. and Mrs. Marston will be held from 7 to 9 o'clock this evening in the church parlors.

Rev. Harvey Dibrell was reappointed as pastor of Centenary church, beginning his third year.

Rev. Clarence Bigler was reappointed as pastor of Brooklyn-Alexander churches, beginning his third year.

Rev. Pines Main will serve the West Jacksonville parish, also beginning his third year in that pastorate. The parish consists of Ebenezer, Mt. Zion, Wesley Chapel and Riggs churches.

New Pastor In Parish Rev. Milo Smith, who has served the East Jacksonville parish, was transferred, and Rev. William Causser was appointed as new pastor. Rev. Causser has been attending MacMurray College, and formerly preached at Camden.

The East Jacksonville parish consists of Shiloh, Hebron, Asbury and Salem churches.

Rev. J. W. Patterson returns to the Lynnville church for another year.

Rev. M. M. Blair of this city, who serves the Island Grove church, was reappointed for another year.

Change At Virginia Rev. Charles Bennett was transferred from Tonica, Ill., to Virginia as the new pastor there, replacing Rev. Paul DuBois who was assigned to Blue Mound.

Joseph Marlin, who has been serving as a lay preacher, was named pastor of the Chapin-Meredosia church, replacing Rev. Emory Kaufman.

Rev. Richard Seed was reappointed to the Murraville church.

Rev. George Garris returns to the Franklin-Durbin churches. At the Friday night session of the Conference he was ordained as a local elder.

Jacksonville District Astoria-Sheldon's Grove - Vermont, H. H. Hughes, Missouri.

Augusta, Irving Kenyon, Lexington.

Beardstown, Harold W. Peterson, Decatur First associate.

Browning, Clinton Jordan, MacMurray.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Markings of butcher hogs this week at Chicago and the 12 major centers were the smallest for a five-day period since the first week of April and prices of all classes advanced.

Barrows and gilts were 25 to 50 cents higher and sows strong to 25 cents higher for the week.

The offerings were about 20 per cent sows but there also was an increasing volume of new crop butcher hogs grading no. 1 and 2 and weighing under 220 lbs. Meanwhile, the portion of old crop heavier weights declined.

During the week some pork cuts at wholesale climbed $1 to $4.

Cattle receipts were only slightly less than the previous week's record high for the last six months and prices of slaughter steers and heifers were weak to 50 cents lower.

The decline was the fourth consecutive week of lower prices for steers and the average price hit the lowest level since February. At the same time prices of cows were about as high as any time since the summer of 1952 and bulls were at their peak prices since July of that year.

About 70 per cent of the week's supply was slaughter steers with about 60 per cent of that class grading choice and about 5 per cent prime.

Offerings on the sheep market were the second smallest in almost a year but nearly 10 per cent larger than last week. Spring lambs were $1 to $1.50 higher and old crop lambs about 50 cents higher with ewes steady.

Prices of old crop lamb carcasses advanced about $1 and spring lamb carcasses as much as $2 during the week.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Following is a summary for the week of the hog, cattle and sheep markets:

Hogs 100, total 100 (estimated); Several lots of No 1 and 2 200; 225 lbs brought 23.50-23.85. Most U.S. No 2 and 3 mixed grade 190; 250 lb weights brought 22.75-23.40 with same grades 250-280 lbs 22.25-22.75 and weights up to 320 lbs down to 21.50. Sows closed at 17.50-20.50. With 400 lb weights around 19.50.

Cattle 200, total 200 (estimated); High choice and prime steers over 1000 lbs opened at 29.00-32.50 and closed at 28.50-32.50, most prime 1150-1450 lb steers 30.50-32.00, only two loads 1225 and 1400 lb weights at the 32.50 top, early bulk average choice steers 27.50-28.50, utility and late bulk 27.00-28.25, mixed choice and prime 1.000 lb weights late 28.00, most high choice and mixed choice and prime steers 1050 lbs up 28.50-30.50, weeks bulk good and mixed good and choice steers 25.00-27.25, utility and standard carcasses 21.50-24.50. High choice and prime heifers during the week 27.75-29.25, few prime 1100-1200 lb heifers at 29.00 and 29.25. Early bulk good and choice heifers 25.00-28.00, late bulk 24.50-27.50, utility and standard heifers 20.50-24.50. Standard cows 22.00-23.00, commercial 20.50-22.00, utility 19.00-21.00, bulk canners and others 16.50-19.50. Few light canner cows down to 18.00. Most utility and commercial bulls 22.50-24.50, cutters 20.50-22.50. Good and choice vealers 28.00-32.00. Utility and standard 19.00-28.00.

Sheep 100, total 100 (estimated); Choice 100-112 lb No 1, old crop lamb bulk at 21.00-22.00, weights up to 122 lbs sold as low as 10.00. Good and low choice 18.50-21.00, cull and utility 15.00-18.00. High choice and prime spring lambs sold 25.00-25.50, while good and choice were 22.00-24.75. Good and choice slaughter ewes mainly 6.50-8.00, cull and utility 5.00-6.50.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a slow start this week but finished with a sprint to new peaks for 1953.

It was the market's fourth straight weekly advance and its best in three weeks.

Trading, while heavy, was a bit below the previous week. A total of 13,205,380 shares changed hands, making a daily average of 2,641,076, well above par for this year.

The advance brought the market through a difficult resistance area, represented by the level of 470 in the Dow Jones average. By the end of the week this average stood at a new 1953 high of 474.77.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was at a fresh peak for this year of $174.30, having risen $1.29. The A.P. average was at its highest point since last Sept. 4.

The market was helped along by an assortment of favorable news which affected, in turn, the copper, rails, oils and tobaccos. Steels and shipbuilding issues had less encouraging news to reckon with and didn't do so well.

As the trading week ended, the stock market had some fine economic news to look at. The nation's industrial production index had its first upturn since June 1937. Housing starts went past the one million annual rate for the first time since January. Freight carloadings were at their best since early December.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS
CHICAGO (AP)—Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 10,000 hogs, 21,000 cattle and 2,500 sheep.

SKIMPY SUPPLIES HIKE WHEAT PRICES

By GIL MAYO
CHICAGO (AP)—Continued tightening commercial supplies of wheat and corn keyed grain futures trading this week with dealers inclined to back away from heavy short selling.

The already skimpy supplies of wheat and corn in Chicago commercial positions were dwindling by the day and receipts slowing to a dribble.

Although the wheat harvest in the southwest is nearing completion little of the grain has found its way into dealer hands. Sales of corn by producers still ran less than market requirements.

Early in the week there was a general feeling that as the wheat harvest neared the peak large amounts of the grain would be channeled into commercial trade, especially if local storage facilities should become clogged.

But on Thursday, the Department of Agriculture announced it would grant price support benefits temporarily to producers even though they have no storage available and are compelled to pile their grain on the ground.

At week's end, most dealers were convinced, therefore, that prices somehow must rise to or above the government loan figure to bring good supplies to market.

While prices of all grains generally were firm there were no unusually wide swings.

At the end of the week, wheat was 3/4-3/8 cents a bushel higher than a week ago, corn was 2 1/2 higher to 1 cent lower, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, rye 2 1/2-2 1/4 higher, soybeans 1-1 1/2 higher, and hard 5 to 17 cents a hundred pounds lower.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The corporate bond market staged a general advance this week in brisk trading. U. S. government bonds drifted lower in light transactions.

Rails led the corporate rally, establishing new 1953 highs on three successive days. The carriers finished the week strong as indications mounted that Congress apparently is about to aid the industry.

Utilities and industrials also posted solid gains. Investment quality issues and foreign dollar bonds inched higher.

Trading for the week amounted to $27,753,500 par value on the New York Stock Exchange. Last week volume was $29,727,500 and a year ago it was $21,269,000.

BEIRUT ENGULFED IN DAY-LONG BATTLE

The rebel team here earlier in the week in an effort to prevent arms and men from slipping into Lebanon from outside its borders. Lebanon has charged the United Arab Republic with interference in Lebanese internal affairs.

Move Expected
The rebel move had been expected to follow the U.N. step. The rebels have used Ex-Premier Seab Salam's home as their headquarters for the last 36 days. Salam is the acknowledged leader of the political opposition to Chamoun. Three political parties were declared outlawed Friday in a government drive to crush its foes.

U.S. CHARGES SOVIET NOTE INACCURATE

The State Department objected to the Soviet note on the grounds that it was inaccurate. The note said the U.S. side would consist of the United States, Britain, France, and possibly other countries. But the latest Gromyko note said the U.S. side would consist of the three Western Powers and the Soviet side would consist of Russia, Poland, and Czechoslovakia. The United States is expected to tell Moscow that it must reserve the right to bring in other countries if it desires.

2. On another point related to representatives at the talks, the Soviet note expressed regret that it had not been possible to reach agreement on including India and possibly other cold war neutrals in the Geneva talks. Under the expected clarification on this point, the U.S. presumably would be held open to bring Indian scientists in at a later date.

3. The Gromyko note said the Soviet government "proceeds from the assumption that 'Agreement will be reached on the suspension of nuclear weapons tests by all powers possessing them.'"

Eisenhower has insisted from the first that the talks should be held without any commitment on either side about stopping the nuclear tests.

Marx House And Lots Auctioned For $12,600

A four room modern house and several lots at the southeast corner of Webster avenue and Maple street were sold at public auction Saturday morning at the court house for a total of $12,600. Sam Marx and Lottie Marx were the sellers.

The residence on a lot 136 by 130 was sold for $10,600 to Mrs. Lottie Marx.

A 1 1/2 acre tract was sold on a bid of $2,000 to Ralph Marx.

Middendorf Brothers were auctioneers of the sale. Edward J. Flynn is attorney for the sellers.

4-H Club Activities

The Happy Workers 4-H Club met June 11 at the home of Shirley Fernandes. Betty Curtis, president, presided.

Nancy Fernandes led the club in the pledge to the American flag, and Sharon Cox led the 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by having each member tell what she was planning to do for the summer.

Business items taken up included: a rehearsal of the Share-The Fun festival and a discussion about taking a tour through the Lucky Boy Bakery and The Vogue Shop. The program consisted of a demonstration by Shirley Fernandes, "How To Make Deviled Eggs."

Games were played and refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held June 17 at the home of Trudy Cross.

Guests at the meeting were Janet Jackson, Mrs. Harold Fernandes, and Nancy and Mrs. Ralph Knepler.

The Arnold Maids 4-H club met on June 4 at the home of Mrs. Ruel Parlier. The president, Paulette Turner, called the meeting to order and led the group in the pledges of the American and 4-H flags.

The secretary, Marilyn Brodson, gave roll call and the reading of the minutes.

Marilyn Sargeant gave a demonstration on how to make Snickerdoodles. Sue Ginder and Miss Sargeant also gave a demonstration on how to bandage a broken arm, elbow, wrist, leg, fractured collarbone.

The club was served punch and cookies.

4-H Club Activities

The Berea Girls' 4-H Club held its 5th meeting June 12 at the home of Sharon Fulton, Linda Zeller, the president, called the meeting to order. Dorothy Ann Kaiser led the pledges to the flags. Roll call was answered by giving the number of years in 4-H work. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Phyllis Stewart, and the treasurer's report was given.

Karen Fitzsimmons gave a talk on "How to Select Meats." The following demonstrations were given: Phyllis Stewart, "How to Put in a Zipper;" Margaret Greene, "How to Separate an Egg;" and Barbara Smith, "How to Make a Funny Cake."

Sharon Fulton played "Beautiful Dreamer," "Wear My Ring Around Your Neck," "Witch Doctor," and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" on the organ. Several members brought samples of their baked products, and these were judged by the club members.

Recreation was led by Sandra Keitner and Linda Zeller. Refreshments of grilled hot dogs, potato chips, and iced tea were served out-of-doors by the hostesses, Sharon Fulton and Mary Williams.

The rehearsal for the Share-the-Fun Festival will be held June 17, at 2 p.m. (DST) at the home of Mrs. Carmen Becker.

These conditions are revealed by officials of the U. S. Office of Education and the National Education Association. They believe the lack of teaching apparatus is one of the most drastic problems facing education today.

"This need restricts the effectiveness of even our best teachers," declares Dr. Lyman Ginger, president of the education association. "Instructional equipment can almost be termed a forgotten need," he says. "The great pressure on the schools to put a roof over the heads of all children have often prevented the adequate equipping of the classrooms that have been constructed."

Dr. Ellsworth S. Obourn, science specialist for the Office of Education, declares:

"Even though we do improve the quality of teachers, they can't do a good science teaching job until they have the facilities and equipment that makes this possible."

He explains that the only way students can effectively learn science is by conducting laboratory experiments. That's why he's so concerned about schools where as many as 35 pupils have to use one microscope or conduct experiments with dilapidated, obsolete equipment.

Some school labs, he says, don't even have running water. Others don't have any outside areas to grow plants needed for some experiments.

Dr. Obourn has seen many of these conditions himself. Others have been reported to him by teachers and science department supervisors. The Office of Education is conducting a nationwide school survey to get a more detailed picture of the situation.

Results of similar survey involving 5,000 high schools already are being compiled by the education association's research experts. They show that 50 per cent of these schools lack a direct electrical current in their physics laboratories. More than 85 per cent don't have a calculator available for mathematics instruction. And only one school in five has a graph board in all its math classrooms.

Dr. Ginger declares the nation's public high schools need at least 90 million dollars worth of scientific equipment and apparatus before they can do an effective teaching job.

Dr. Obourn, however, believes that a lack of funds is no excuse for schools not stocking their student labs with necessary equipment. He explains that students and teachers can make a lot of the apparatus themselves.

"It would be a good exercise for pupils to give them the specifications and have them build the equipment," he says. "In a few years a science teacher could have a fairly good array of materials."

He reports that some schools are already using such improvised equipment.

The Look of Sleek Summer Cottons

BY GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK (NEA) — Full skirts sail straight into warm summer weather as an antidote to the chemise. But summer collections of the top designers have lent the sophisticated touch to the sailor dress and the over-bustle, turning out clothes that are a far cry from the little red schoolhouse.

Despite all of the talk floating around about the "schoolgirl air," the truth is that few of us resemble schoolgirls. Knowing this, the trend designers have lent the sophisticated touch to the sailor dress and the over-bustle, turning out clothes that are a far cry from the little red schoolhouse.

Public School Science Teaching Blocked By Shortage Of Classroom Lab Equipment

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A severe shortage of classroom laboratory equipment in the public schools is blocking efforts to improve science teaching.

Thousands of students are having to study complicated chemistry, physics and biology courses in laboratories which lack microscopes, electricity and even water. Others are missing out on a sound scientific background simply because their classrooms aren't big enough for them to carry on individual experiments.

These conditions are revealed by officials of the U. S. Office of Education and the National Education Association. They believe the lack of teaching apparatus is one of the most drastic problems facing education today.

"This need restricts the effectiveness of even our best teachers," declares Dr. Lyman Ginger, president of the education association. equipment shortage is especially severe, could find valuable items in auto junk yards and radio and TV shops which could be turned into useful apparatus.

The Office of Education official reveals that in some underdeveloped areas of Southeast Asia, the entire physics programs are being taught with equipment made in the schools' physics shops.

Some equipment, however, has to be purchased, Dr. Obourn says, since it is too complicated for most students or teachers to make.

Commercial manufacturers are constantly turning out new, low cost, elaborate school apparatus that keeps pace with the latest scientific advances. Available for classrooms today, for instance, are small diffusion cloud chambers, special gadgets to teach methods for controlling electron motion and high-powered microscope projectors.

Man Critically Beats Family, Then Kills Self

Mrs. Bennett had appeared with bands and on Rockford radio and television programs. She sang this spring with a group called the Sweet Adelines. She also supervised promotion exhibits at trade shows.

Bennett's brother and business partner, Robert, Robert's wife, and his white-haired father, John Sr., arrived at Swedish-American Hospital soon after the victims were taken there.

"What happened?" they cried. Nurses and medical attendants shrugged their shoulders and went hurriedly at their tasks.

Finally a doctor took them aside and gave them sketchy details.

"Oh my God, my God," Robert moaned.

His frail, elderly father sank onto a leather-covered lounge and cried.

One of three Roman Catholic priests summoned to administer last rites tried to comfort the trio.

"This will kill his mother," the elder Bennett said.

The elder Mrs. Bennett remained at home where she has been under medical treatment for some time.

Later Bennett's sister, Lois, rushed into the hospital, wearing a shawl and Bermuda shorts. She was crying. The family notified another sister in Utah.

Investigators looking for possible notes found three neatly wrapped gift packages on the front seat of an automobile in the Bennett driveway.

Said they were Father's Day presents the girls had planned to give their father Sunday.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—As the man in the press box pointed out, the result of the Belmont Stakes adds another imponderable to the sports world to rank with, "Could Jack Dempsey have beaten Joe Louis?" Would Tim Tam have beaten Cavan had he not broken down?

It is doubtful that this new question, like the other, ever will be answered, although Jimmy Jones professes to believe Tim Tam has an even chance to get back to the races. They rarely do when anything happens to the sesamoid and the son of Tom Fool chipped the one in his right front foot when he turned on the final bit of pressure upon locking heads with Cavan at the head of the stretch. This bone forms the knob at the back of the fetlock joint just above the hoof, and while a thoroughbred gets his power from the back he runs off his fore legs.

In the books of racing people, Tim Tam didn't have to win the mount to prove his worth. The Calumet Farm colt did this come the hard way in winning 10 of 13 races this year, six in a row and five of them stakes. The Jones boys operate on the old and sound theory that horses can't win races in stalls. And it is difficult to recall another three-year-old which was raced so much and so vigorously as such a short period.

Even Ben A. Jones admits that Tim Tam may have had the spark of greatness, and that's a heap for the 75-year-old trainer to say about one of his horses. Plain Ben, 75, didn't see the Belmont, spent the day on the farm hard by Lexington.

But the famous handler discussed Tim Tam in rating for the Thoroughbred Record the horses he has trained through the years for Calumet. You might be interested in which he puts on top. He lists the colts and geldings in this order: Citation, Armed, Whirlaway, Mark-Ye-Well, Coaltown, Ponder, Hill Gail and Fleet Bird. These are his foremost fillies and mares: Twilight Tear, Two Lea Wisful, A Gleam, Bewitch, Real Delight, Mar-Kell and Nellie Flagg.

"We honestly didn't know how good Tim Tam was," said the elder Jones. "He must have had the spark of greatness, else something would have happened to get him beat in the last eight races he won."

Tim Tam didn't have the brilliant natural speed of Citation, Whirlaway, Coaltown or Hill Gail. "But he was tough, as smart in a race as horses come," stressed B. A. "He knew how to take care of himself, and would do anything you asked. He'd rate perfectly, then give you one real run, or two or three, if you asked him for it."

"Tim Tam would go the distance all right. He'd go as far as any three-year-old I've seen this year. I never saw him offer to quit. He didn't do any more than he had to do to win. Smart horses know where the pay-off station is. They recognize the head of the stretch, where the real running begins. In a distance race, they protect themselves by putting off their real best effort as long as you'll let them."

Ben Jones knew the tough campaigning wasn't hurting Tim Tam. "He put on weight in spite of all the hard racing," he concluded.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Philadelphia Phils combined the seven-hit pitching of rookie Roman Semproch and home runs by Stan Lopata and Solley Hemus to clip the San Francisco Giants 3-2 Saturday.

Semproch struck out four and gave up only one walk. Only three men reached first base after the third inning.

Hemus, veteran utility infielder, came in as a pinch hitter in the fourth inning with the score tied 2-2. San Francisco Giants' Ramon Monzant hit Hemus on the forearm in that frame, Hemus' 370-foot blast into the right field bleachers in the seventh was his third of the season and gave him a consecutive game hitting streak of 14.

Lopata belted his two-run homer in the fourth into the left field bleachers.
Willie Mays picked up two singles in four attempts to raise his batting average to .396. He had been in a prolonged slump.

Carter Says He's Ready To Fight All Heavyweights

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold Carter, the mystic, deep thinker, lover of poetry and philosopher (he says) is ready to start mingling with the top heavyweights.

Carter, dropped Nietzsche and Keats to spar with Besmanoff (Willi), a heavy muscled German. Friday night at Madison Square Garden, he got away with an unanimous decision over Willi although he tired in the late rounds.

"Did you have any poetic thoughts?" a man asked in the dressing room.

"I ran over a few lines," he answered. Sitting on a rubbing table, he spoke:

"If you can keep your head, while all around you men are losing theirs."

Gene Tunney wasn't around so the boxing writers couldn't check Harold for accuracy. It seemed every one had forgotten to bring their copy of Kipling to the fights.

"We're ready for Nino Valdes," said Manager Gene Holmes in a more prosaic mood. "Then we'll take any of the top four, including the champ."

Carter, 1911, to Besmanoff's 193 pounds, admitted he "needed the fight." He also admitted he was a little "fatigued." Just when it appeared he was going to flatten Besmanoff, the German would come up with a flurry that would wobble Harold. There were no knockdowns.

All three officials scored it lopsided in favor of the 22-year-old boxer from Linden, N. J., who was coming off a 17-month layoff after serving in the Army.

Basilio Signs To Face Aragon For Shot At Akins

CHICAGO (AP)—Former middleweight champion Carmen Basilio has signed for an Aug. 23 bout with Art Aragon in hopes of getting a shot at welterweight champion Virgil Akins this fall.

Basilio, dethroned by Sugar Ray Robinson in Chicago Stadium last March 25, got tired of Robinson's stalling on a possible rematch, said Basilio's co-managers, John De John and Joe Netro.

The Basilio-Aragon match in Los Angeles, a 12-round guaranteed Basilio $50,000, was announced Friday by Los Angeles matchmaker George Parnassus in Chicago.

An elimination series for Basilio's vacated welter title was climaxed last Friday night when Akins became champion by stopping Vince Martinez in four rounds in St. Louis.

Frenchman Beats Tim Holland In Amateur Finals

DEAUVILLE, France (AP)—Henri de Lamaze of Paris defeated Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N. Y., 4-and-3, Saturday and won his fifth consecutive French amateur golf crown. It is the ninth time the dapper Frenchman has taken this championship.

Holland, a defeated semifinalist in the British amateur a week ago, led after the morning round 1-up. But after lunch he continued spraying his wood shots into the rough while De Lamaze, beset with putting troubles early, steadied and closed out the match on the 33rd.

Holland was short with his approach on the 33rd, leaving himself a 25-foot putt. He missed by eight inches and it was all over.

In the National League, the first place Milwaukee Braves retained a 1½ game edge by beating St. Louis 2-0 in a game held to six innings by rain. Second place San Francisco ended its losing string at five with a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia. Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 5-4. Cincinnati and the Chicago Cubs were held by rain.

In defeating the Yankees, the Tigers won their third in four shots under new manager Bill Norman. It was Bobby Shantz' third consecutive defeat.

Billy Hoelt won it for a 5-5 record, but needed relief help. He retired the first six he faced, then gave up Mickey Mantle's 12th homer for a 1-1 tie in the fourth.

Ray Nariecki won his eighth with a four-hitter for the Indians. Chuck Stobbs lost his fifth.

The White Sox, blanked on two hits for eight innings, chased Jack Harshman with seven singles and five runs for a 5-4 lead in the ninth. Then Jim Marshall, pinch-hitting for Jim Busby (whose 3-run homer junked Billy Pierce's one-hit shutout in the seventh), lined the tying home run off Billy Fischer with two out in the ninth.

Joey Jay, the youngster touted as having the stuff to be another Warren Spahn for the Milwaukee Braves, may just be starting, but he already has one of Spahn's traits down pat. Two of his three victories in the majors are shutouts.

It was Ben Gerashty, Milwaukee's top minor league boss, who tagged the 22-year-old right-hander as a comer who could become a consistent ace, such as Spahn, who among other records leads active National League pitchers with 42 shutouts.

That's a big order for Jay, who hasn't been a ball of fire since signing for a bonus in 1953. But there wasn't much wrong with his stuff Friday night as he blanked St. Louis 2-0 in a game held to six innings.

That retained Milwaukee's 1½ game lead as second place San Francisco ended a losing slump at five with a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia. Los Angeles scored two in the ninth for a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati and the Chicago Cubs were held by rain.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers shaved New York's lead to eight games by beating the Yankees 4-2. Second place Boston rapped Kansas City 9-3. Cleveland walloped Washington 10-1. The Chicago White Sox and Baltimore played a 5-5, 14-inning tie ended by a Baltimore curfew.

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli won his sixth with a five-hitter that gave the Giants their first complete game since beating St. Louis June 1. The Giants were held to three hits and an unearned run

Two New Hurlers Turn Cincinnati Back, 4-3, For Chicago Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs used two new pitchers, starting Johnny Briggs and Bill Henry, who worked in relief, on Cincinnati Saturday and their combined efforts turned back the Redlegs, 4-3, before a Ladies' Day turnout of 22,552.

Briggs, who exited in the fifth after the Redlegs rose to a 3-3 tie, yielded five hits. The left-handed Henry gave up only two in the final four and two-thirds innings to gain his first National League triumph.

Briggs was recalled from Fort Worth of the Texas League during this week. Henry was purchased from Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

Victim of the Cubs' 10-hit offensive was Bob Purkey, an eight-time winner who suffered his second loss. Purkey also had a five game winning streak snapped.

McLish, Indians Coast To Easy 10-2 Triumph

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herb Score, pitching three blazing innings of relief, made his first appearance in more than six weeks Saturday as the Cleveland Indians exploited feeble Washington hurling for a 10-2 victory.

By annihilating the Senators, the Indians jumped from sixth to fourth place in the American League.

Score, sidelined by a sore arm since April 30, looked as strong as ever as he blanked Washington over the last three innings. He struck out five, walked one and allowed one hit.

Manager Bobby Bragan decided to give his ace southpaw some exercise after the Indians had piled up their winning margin in six innings to insure starter Cal McLish of his third victory in six decisions.

Homers by Roger Maris, Preston Ward and Rocky Colavito tied in with some eccentric Washington hurling to give McLish a restful afternoon.

Tigers Rally In 9th For 5-4 Win Over Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Bolling looped a Ryne Duren fast ball into center for a two-run single with two out in the ninth Saturday as Detroit rallied for a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

All the drama of this one was packed into the last two innings as the Yankees first took the lead 4-3 on Yogi Berra's three-run homer in the eighth, then watched Duren—their rookie relief ace—blow one for the first time since the opening week of the season.

Duren took over after Bob Grim, walked pinch hitter Bob Hazle, the first batter in the ninth, on four pitches. Duren retired Johnny Groth and Ossie Virgil on pop-ups but Al Kaline's fourth hit, an infield single, and a walk to Charlie Maxwell on a full count loaded the bases.

The count went to 3-2 on Bolling before he blooped his game-winning center fielder at the feet of the charging Mickey Mantle, scoring Hazle and Kaline.

St. Louis Youth Stops Russians In Kent Matches

BECKENHAM, England (AP)—A 17-year-old St. Louis lad, Earl Buchholz, thwarted the Russians Saturday in their attempt to sweep the junior titles of the Kent Tennis Championships in their opening drive to put the Soviet game on display this side of the Iron Curtain.

Buchholz, towering member of the U.S. junior Davis Cup team, defeated Andrei Potanin of Leningrad, 6-0, 5 in the final round of the boys' division but chubby Anna Dmitrieva, 17-year-old schoolgirl from Moscow, won the girls' honors with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Katerina Frenkelius of Sweden.

The Russians arrived earlier this week in preparation for the Soviet debut at Wimbledon later this month. They were beaten in their first matches played on clay, but stormed through their age division. The matches here were played on grass.

In the men's division, Neale Fraser, of Australia, defeated Kurt Nielsen of Denmark for the title 6-4, 6-4. Fraser, a southpaw who is expected to finish high in the coming Wimbledon tourney, took command at the outset of each set.

The woman's singles title went to Sandra Reynolds, who defeated Jean Forbes, also 6-4, 6-4, in an all-South African duel.

British Schoolgirl Upsets Althea Gibson In Wightman Playoff

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Christine Truman, a 17-year-old Amazonian schoolgirl, overpowered tennis queen Althea Gibson in a startling upset Saturday as Britain smashed America's 28-year hold on the Wightman Cup, four matches to three.

The honor of clinching Britain's first cup championship since 1930 went to Ann Haydon, who scored her country's fourth point in the next-to-last match of the seven-match, two-day competition with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 singles victory over Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif.

The United States got its last point in a meaningless, concluding doubles match as Miss Gibson and Janet Hopps of Seattle defeated Ann Shilcock and Pat Ward, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

But the six-foot, 170-pound Miss Truman, who swept both her singles assignments and shared in a third point in doubles, triggered the upset.

Following up her brilliant play in Friday's opening program, Miss Truman shrugged off a first set loss and simply overwhelmed Miss Gibson—the defending Wimbledon and U. S. champion—2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Her victory came at the crucial point in the series. Veteran Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., had moments before squared the competition at 2-2 with a surprise triumph over Shirley Bloomer in the opening singles.

James Henderson New IAA Agent For Scott

WINCHESTER—James Henderson, who has been associated with the IAA Insurance Service since 1933 and in Morgan county since the first of the year, will come to Scott county to replace Carl Gasaway, insurance agent, in the near future. This announcement was made by the Board of Directors of the Scott County Farm Bureau this week. Mr. Henderson, age 39, a native of Eastern Indiana, received his B.S. degree from the School of Agriculture at Purdue University. For four years he served in the U.S. Marine Air Corps as a pilot.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, who have made their home the past six months in Chapin, will move to Winchester as soon as housing is available. Carl Gasaway and family will soon move to Litchfield where he begins his duties there with the County Mutual Insurance Company July 1.

Featured In Magazine

The June 7 issue of the Prairie Farmer magazine has a feature article on Scott County and how the area is fully farm related. The article, written by the county reporter, tells of how the county's industry is agriculture-related, that general farming, with emphasis on corn and hogs, is the picture in "the bantam-sized county."

Farmers interviewed, some pictured, and facts told of their farming operations include Robert Worrell, Virgil Vortman, Royal Oakes, Carl Stegemann, William Kleinschmidt, William Ehler, George Reid, James Shaffer, Ralph Young, W. T. Watt, Lloyd Wallis, Harold Peckreynhouse, and Mrs. Clyde North, spoken of as the only woman board member of an Illinois Soil Conservation Board.

1939 will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain on a farm, except those who are participating in the 1938 wheat feed program. Food wheat participants are permitted to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm where grown, without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve the quotas, they will remain in effect for 1939-crop wheat price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at a national average of not less than $1.81 per bushel, or 75 per cent of parity. Farmers who exceed the larger of the farm allotment or 15 acres will be subject to a marketing penalty of 45 per cent of the wheat parity price on their "excess" wheat, and if the excess is not stored or delivered to the Secretary of Agriculture, the excess acreage will not be considered in setting future allotments.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting, they will not be in effect, and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at about $1.20 per bushel, or 50 per cent of parity.

25 MILLION WHITE PERSONS IN U.S. NEGRO DESCENDANTS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University professor of sociology and anthropology says more than 25 million white persons in the United States are descendants of persons of African origin.

The majority of these are classified as white, Robert P. Stuckert reports in the current issue of the Ohio Journal of Science. Stuckert is assistant professor in the university's department of sociology and anthropology. He said he drew these conclusions from a genetic study of African and non-African population in this country from 1790 through 1930.

He was born in Scott county June 18, 1882, son of Arthur and Emily Angelo Lawson. He is survived by his wife, Ada Lawson of New Berlin.

Also surviving are several children, who are, Leonard Lawson of Pittsfield, George Lawson and Mrs. Rose Groce of Winchester, William Lawson of Griggsville and Mrs. Alberta Summers of Quincy. Two sisters survive, Mrs. Beatrice Drake and Mrs. Myrtle Moff, both of Winchester and a brother, Tony Lawson, also of Winchester. Two brothers are deceased. Sixteen grandchildren and six great-grandchildren survive.

He was a member of the Baptist Church.

The body is at the Cunningham Funeral Home where the family will meet friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home at 2 p.m. Monday with the Rev. F. V. Wright officiating. Burial will be in Manchester cemetery.

Price Angle Principle Factor In This Week's Wheat Control Voting

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter
WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers vote June 20 on the question of continuing production controls on wheat—controls that do not work.

By this, it is meant that they fail to achieve the goal set for them when written into law in 1938—that of balancing production with markets.

Federal controls on wheat have been in effect every year since 1934. Yet surplus stocks may set a record this year.

Specifically, growers in 38 designated commercial states will ballot in an Agriculture Department referendum on continuing marketing quotas. They would be designed to limit marketings from the 1959 crop to the wheat grown on 55 million acres apportioned growers under a legal formula.

Excess sales would be subject to penalties of around $1.05 a bushel, which, on the basis of present prospects, would be about 60 per cent of the market price.

It is pretty well taken for granted by farm officials that farmers will cast the necessary two-thirds majority necessary to make the quotas operative. Last year the margin for controls on this year's crop was 86 per cent.

Price Angle
Growers approve not because of the control feature but because of the price angle. If they approve the program, the government will be required to support the 1959 crop at not less than the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity which is expected to be about $1.81 a bushel. This year's minimum rate has been set at $1.78. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

But should growers reject con-

Farmers Check Wheat Varieties At Oakes Plots

A LARGE NUMBER of people turned out last Tuesday afternoon to examine wheat variety plots on the Royal Oakes farm north of Bluffs and to hear Oakes and other specialists discuss the weak and the strong points of each variety.

Triumph is the best hard winter wheat now available, the experts agreed, and should be planted in preference to Pawnee, that excellent standby for the past 10 years. The seed should be treated, however, to hold down loose smut.

Vermilion is the best soft variety, they said. It is a little bit better than Knox, which is the most popular soft wheat raised by the farmers of this area now. The visitors were especially interested in four varieties which are brand-new in this area.

Crockett from Texas looks very good and has splendid resistance to rust. "Crockett has plenty of other characteristics and may be a late for this area, and the grain is of poor quality."

It may be O. K. for Wisconsin, Oakes said, "but it's not promising. And LaPorte from for us."

As alfalfa is king of hay legumes, so is ladino clover king of pasture legumes. With normal rainfall, no legume, including alfalfa, red clover, sweet clover or lespedeza, will approach the pasture yield of ladino. Forage sampling of ladino-grass pastures on the Station here confirmed yields of five to six tons of oven-dry forage in a single grazing season.

Adapted to Grazing
Because of its growth habit, ladino is a natural pasture legume, and high yields are actually encouraged by frequent grazing. The ladino stem grows along the ground, and grazing animals eat only the leaves, leaving the stem to rapidly shoot new leaves. In contrast, alfalfa, red clover, sweet clover, and lespedeza grow upright, and grazing animals eat both stems and leaves, making recovery growth slower than in ladino.

This simple difference in growth habits make a difference in grazing management as well as in yields. It is much easier to graze ladino properly than any of the upright-growing legumes. Ladino invites the practice of closer and repeated grazings. If it were mowed or grazed only three times a year, as is alfalfa, its yield would suffer and would be less than the yield of the alfalfa.

On the Station, ladino has proved too valuable in producing meat to be eliminated from pasture mixtures. In mixtures with grasses it may be pastured with reasonable safety from bloat.

Implants Not for Heifers
Do not implant heifers with stilbestrol. A while back we reported that 12 to 24 milligrams of stilbestrol implanted in grazing steers gave a worthwhile increase in pasture gains. However, we did not implant heifers. On the basis of present information available to us, we believe the side effects of the implants, such as increased excitement, lowered carcass quality and danger of prolapses, to be too severe to recommend its use. However, limited work has indicated that stilbestrol may be fed safely to heifers with some advantage in gains, though not so great as with steers. Recommendations are to feed not over 5 milligrams per day to heifers to be slaughtered, and none to heifers for breeding.

Corn Irrigation
Lee Gard, Station irrigation researcher, says that irrigation should be planned only on land of high fertility. He says that too much water is not desirable, but that two inches applied 60 to 65 days after planting and another 2 inches 10 days later will pay off with 4 to 6 more bushels of corn for each inch of water applied.

EGG QUALITY A CONSTANT DOWNHILL RUN

Egg quality is a downhill run all the way.

The best that Illinois poultrymen can hope for in hot summer weather is to follow recommended practices and keep egg quality as high as possible, says S. F. Riden, extension poultry specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

USDA studies in the midwest show that egg producers who do follow recommended practices can market 90 percent Grade A eggs. Farmers who do not, market only 55 percent Grade A eggs.

Riden suggests first that you use well-bred stock. Blood spots, meat spots, egg weight and shell weight are inherited. Chickens can be bred to produce high-quality eggs.

Keep a young flock. Older hens produce eggs with thinner whites and weaker shells. Replace them with pullets.

Control diseases. Outbreaks of some diseases are accompanied by a loss in egg quality. Quality often states low after production goes back up. Some poultry drugs cause the shells to become weak and rough.

Reduce egg breakage. To market unbroken eggs, gather at least twice a day, provide one nest for every four hens, handle eggs gently and start well-bred stock each year.

Produce clean eggs. Ninety-nine percent of all eggs are clean at the time they are laid. When gathered, up to 80 percent of them are soiled. To check this loss, keep the litter dry, keep nesting material clean and dry and confine the laying hens.

Aim for higher interior quality of eggs. Cool them quickly and then hold the temperature at about 55 degrees. Pack them with the small end down.

Market frequently, preferably at least twice a week.

BOB COFFMAN of Carthage will spend the summer in Scott county serving as assistant youth adviser in the extension service. In September he will return to the U.I. campus to begin his third year in the College of Agriculture.

The announcement of his appointment was made last week by Harold Morris, Scott county extension council chairman.

Coffman was a 4-H club member for seven years. For three years he was a junior leader and also a member of the Hancock county 4-H federation. His principal projects were swine, electricity and swine production. In high school he won the state F.F.A. State Farmer degree and participated in the state public speaking and parliamentary procedure training contests.

DEBTS MAY BAR QUICK RECOVERY

For its size, the present business recession is probably the most talked about in history. In spite of, or because of, this great amount of talk, the basic causes and nature of the recession are not generally understood. It may be well, therefore, to review developments leading to the recession and to list some little-observed, but basic, facts about it:

1. During World War II a vast amount of money was created and put into the pockets and bank accounts of the people. The amount of currency in circulation went up from seven billion dollars in 1939 to 28 billion dollars in 1945. During the same time bank deposits swelled from $7 billion to 148 billion dollars.

2. Savings increased greatly during the war. During four years the accumulation of personal savings amounted to about 30 billion dollars a year, ten times the prewar rate. Business savings—undistributed corporate profits—went up from below zero before the war to an accumulation of 25 billion dollars at the war's end.

3. Many needs and wants accumulated during the war. Individuals and families wanted new automobiles, houses, furniture, household appliances, etc. Businesses wanted new factories, stores and equipment. The desire and ability to spend created full employment, with two minor recessions, for 12 years.

During this 12-year spending spree many wants were satisfied and—more importantly—large debts were accumulated:

1. Business spent over 300 billion dollars for new plants and equipment. Capacity for producing manufactured items was increased about 50 percent. Corporate debt increased from $5 billion to 210 billion dollars.

2. Thirteen million families built or bought new houses, three times as many as in a like period before the war. The debt on homes increased from 19 billion to 105 billion dollars.

3. During the same 12 years the American people bought 60 million new cars. Automobiles on streets and highways increased from 25 million in 1946 to 57 million in 1957. We now have one car for every three persons (everyone could ride in the front seat at the same time). Auto buyers now owe 15 billion dollars in installment payments on their cars compared with almost nothing at the end of the war.

4. Families bought large amounts of new furniture, appliances and other things—many on "easy" credit. Consumer debt now totals about 25 billion dollars, not counting what is owed on homes and automobiles. This debt is five times as large as it was when World War II ended.

During this long spending spree many families got over their heads in debt. In recent months they have slowed up their buying. Businesses have cut their spending even more than families. But debts have been reduced only slightly. People are being urged to buy. But whether families and businesses are willing to take on more and bigger debts remains to be seen. If they are not, then the recession will continue for at least several months, even though there is increased production in some industries, such as steel.

An Ecclesiastical Triumph

A scholarly man who has devoted 60 years to the service of God, his parish, and fellowmen will be accorded an unusual honor tomorrow morning.

A Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving at the Church of Our Saviour will mark the Diamond Jubilee in the priesthood of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis F. Formaz.

His Excellency, the Most Rev. William A. O'Connor, Bishop of the Springfield diocese, will officiate at the Mass. A large number of members of the Clergy will gather for the sacred ceremony, in recognition of the event.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz came to Jacksonville as a young man, with the world before him. For 57 years he has served the local parish as assistant pastor and then as pastor. The Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving will celebrate his 60 years in the priesthood, a span of time few men attain in any profession, calling, or endeavor.

His devotion to his Church and duty has been intense, constant, as he carried on the pastoral obligations. His brilliant mind, keen wit, warm friendship, have been enjoyed and appreciated by this community for well over a half century.

On several public occasions Rt. Rev. Monsignor Formaz has confided to his listeners that he didn't intend to stay very long when he arrived in Jacksonville. He thought he would be transferred to another parish before many months or years. But he has lingered, and the Jacksonville community has been bettered by his presence and efforts. His service and devotion have enriched the lives of his parishioners and all his other friends.

Tomorrow's Jubilarian can look back on 60 busy, useful years, while his fellow clergymen and the public join in heartiest congratulations.

Back To Complacency

The defense appropriation bill born in the House of Representatives provides — at $3.3 billion dollars — some 4 billion more than Congress voted last year and 113 million more than President Eisenhower asked. Yet there are a lot of sober warnings that it isn't enough.

One recent word came from Rep. George Mahon (Tex.), whose subcommittee spawned the new measure.

What alarms him is not so much the fact that more money may not be voted for defense this year as that he thinks the American people have slipped back into apathy and complacency.

The Soviet satellite launchings last fall stirred the nation to real concern and the beginnings of action. But as time has passed and we have shot up our own earth satellites to compete with the Russians, the mood has changed. Comments Mahon:

"Now the hysteria is gone, the anger has cooled, and the determination has been blunted. Our emotions and resolves have run the whole gamut from the peak of awareness and urgency to the humdrum plane of complacency."

In his view this reversion is a matter of the deepest import for America's future. For he, like many others, including numerous scientific and technical experts, believes that the Russian threat in the military-scientific field is steadily increasing and is bound to become more serious in the next few years.

No one rises to say this is not so. To the contrary, support for this argument grows.

Capt. Robert C. Truax, a Navy rocket specialist, writing in the magazine Astronautics, says flatly this country hasn't got an integrated space program and isn't even planning one. Without this, he says, "We not only will not overtake the Russians, but the gap will continue to widen until they are as truly masters of space as England was master of the seas in the last two centuries."

The peril we face has been testified to again and again. But there seems to be no man or men prominent on the American scene who can keep the American people unceasingly alert and responsive to their danger.

They appear to react only to severe shocks. The trouble is, one such jolt might come too late. It might be the shock that kills.

In Hollywood

By ROBERT THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When you see Dave Rose conducting his smooch music for the Red Skelton TV show, you'd scarcely suspect that he's a steam engine addict.

The suave conductor-composer has it bad. He not only has one of the world's largest collections of miniature steam engines; he even has a steam train that runs around his San Fernando Valley home.

"Every Saturday, I blow the whistle and the kids come from all over the neighborhood," he said.

When Dave clicked as a composer 20 years ago, he began showing the profit into steam. He collected engines from all over the world and developed his own miniature train, a knee-high affair that will pull 150 people.

"Disneyland started right here," Dave said proudly as he surveyed the track in his back yard. "Years ago, Walt Disney came here to see my train because he was thinking of getting one of his own."

You know it's got to be a mania for Dave because it isn't deductible. Out here, celebrities hardly ever put so much money into something unless it earns a profit or an income tax deduction. "I sometimes use the train for publicity," he explained. "but otherwise, the expense is pure outgo."

"But I think it's worth it. There's nothing I like better than to get up a head of steam or take an engine apart."

The diversion provides welcome relief from the rigors of Dave's musical life. A perfectionist, he composes and arranges most of his own material. Besides the Skelton show, he does the Shower of Stars and other programs. His record albums are best sellers and he sometimes does a movie score.

Then he keeps up a steady schedule of concerts. This week he was in Portland, Ore., conducting at the Rose Festival. Today he leaves for Europe to scout the possibilities of doing some concerts over there this summer.

Sack-Clad Waitresses Could Be Fashion 'Tip' to Women

A publicity handout informs me that a New York hotel has decided that its waitresses may, if they like, wear sack uniforms.

It occurs to me that there is the ideal chance to find out whether men actually do dislike the sack, or whether they just feel that denying any radical change in women's styles has come to be expected of them—in fact, that their very masculinity almost depends on their making fun of feminine fashion changes.

All we women would have to do to know for sure how men really feel about the sack is to find out which girls earn the most in tips—those wearing fitted uniforms or those waiting tables in sacks.

This ought to be a fair test, for it is a well-known fact that men are more generous with a tip if the waitress who brings them their bacon and eggs or steak and French fries has a little feminine appeal.

The fact that women also eat out and also tip won't affect the finding one way or the other.

So to wind up all the talk, we could have some real proof of whether or not women look as silly in sacks as men say they do.

Your guess is as good as mine on how such an experiment would turn out. But I will say this. If I were a waitress depending on tips, I wouldn't wear a sack.

A Glance Into The Past

TEN YEARS AGO

A freak hail storm did thousands of dollars worth of damage Monday afternoon. It cut a wide swath from Mercedosa southeast toward Neelyville and Merritt. At Neelyville the hailstones cascaded down the hill and covered the road to a depth of four feet. A bulldozer was used to clear the highway.

Dulles' enthusiasm for keeping cool even applies to swimming. When he takes a winter vacation at his Duck Island retreat, he always starts each day with a quick dip in the frigid Canadian waters.

THE MARINES may be out of the running in the race for outer space, but they still hold the flashiest, snappiest parades of any service in the Armed Forces.

That's the enthusiastic opinion of government officials who have seen the Marine Corps parade, band concert and fancy drill exhibition held every Friday evening at Washington's Marine Barracks. Crowds at the event often number more than 2,000.

It's reported that some key officials have grown so fond of watching the colorful parades that they have given their wives orders not to accept invitations for cocktail parties or dinners on Friday evenings.

But what pleases Marines most is the little boy, who while watching a recent parade from his father's shoulders, yelled:

"Daddy, I don't want one of those ugly old space suits for my birthday. I want a pretty uniform just like the ones those marching men are wearing."

Feed Young Child Earlier
When Having Dinner Guests

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

"Last Sunday my husband's family was here for dinner," writes Mrs. E.

"Our 3-year-old boy ate with us. As he dislikes using a spoon, he fed himself with his fingers. Later my in-laws criticized his table manners to my husband and I blew up when they left. Should a child of Tommy's age be expected to have good table manners?"

Why doesn't Mrs. E. try feeding Tommy ahead of time when guests are coming to dinner?

There was much sense in the old British custom of feeding children and guests separately. It squarely faced the fact that our youngsters and guests often find each other's table manners and conversation mutually boring. So Monty and Sybil ate their supper in a nursery under the supervision of a Nanny whose work it was to train them in the dining rituals of their parents' social group.

This arrangement worked out two good things. First, it protected Monty and Sybil against the fishy glares of outraged visitors. And second, it kept their parents aware of their need for time to develop acceptable eating skills.

Lacking nurseries and Nannies, we can gain these two good ends for ourselves by feeding little boys and girls before we feed our guests. I hope that Mrs. E. won't be too bitter at her critical in-laws.

Though I've said I don't expect good table manners from little children, I recently discovered my tolerance has limitations.

I found myself sitting across a table from an enchanting little girl of two. She, like Tommy, ate with her fingers. So long as she was hungry, the joy with which she stuffed roast beef into her mouth made endurable the sight of mashed potato and gravy oozing through her fingers.

But later I found her play with the salad pretty hard to take. As she started squeezing mayonnaise out of a slice of tomato, I found myself thinking, "Maybe these young parents are just asking too much of everybody."

Children's muscular skill and mental interests are different from ours. Just as they can't manage silverware with our ease, they can't manage interest in our feelings about Mr. Khrushchev. When we have guests, it seems sensible to plan for the difference.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Release of nine Americans, taken prisoner when their Army helicopter landed in red-run East Germany, is being delayed because of this country's weird relationship with the Communist world.

It goes like this: The United States and other Western nations do not recognize the Communist government of East Germany. This country, allied with West Germany, wants German reunification under free elections.

The Western Allies argue that in accordance with the American-British-French—Russian postwar agreement on Germany, all their dealings with East Germany must be done with the Soviet Union.

When the nine Americans and their helicopter strayed into East Germany June 7 and landed there, this country, instead of appealing to the East Germans for their release, appealed to the Russians.

On June 9 the Russian Embassy in East Berlin refused to step into the case, saying the problem was under the jurisdiction of the East German government. This was one more needle to force American recognition of the German Communists.

The next day, June 10, at his news conference Secretary of State Dulles said the United States would deal with the East German Reds, if necessary, to obtain the nine men's release.

Dulles said: "When it comes to getting Americans out of a country, we don't stand on ceremony, you deal with the kidnappers."

But he added: Dealing with the East Germans in this case still wouldn't mean this country recognized the East German government.

On June 11 the East German Communists promised a quick release for the nine Americans if the United States acted in a "normal and reasonable" manner although they didn't explain what those two words meant. They'd neither say.

Thursday Lincoln White, a State Department spokesman, was asked if this country had started negotiations for the nine Americans. He said no. Why not? The Russian refusal to step in was a statement. It wasn't a formal note.

So, although Dulles had said this country wouldn't wait on ceremony, White said this country was waiting for a formal Russian refusal before turning directly to the East Germans.

Asked how long this country intended to wait for the formal note of Russian refusal before appealing to the East Germans, White said he didn't know but "we don't intend to wait forever."

Dealing with the East Germans, who it doesn't recognize, will put this country in the same position in which it found itself when dealing with the Red Chinese whose government it doesn't recognize, either.

The Soviet Union made it official today in a letter delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Bonn. It said return of the Americans is "not within the competence of the 'soviets' forces" and referred U.S. authorities to the East German government.

The State Department might decide to try again at a higher Soviet level. Otherwise the problem becomes one of technique—how to deal with a regime whose existence as a government is not officially acknowledged. A Bonn embassy spokesman said he didn't know what the next step would be.

Ever since Chiang Kai-shek in 1949 was thrown off the China mainland by the Red Chinese and fled to Formosa, this country, now allied with him, has refused to recognize the Chinese Communist government on the mainland.

Nevertheless Americans fought the so-called Chinese volunteers in Korea and worked out a Korean armistice made possible only because the United States and Red China abide by it.

And, still not recognizing the Red Chinese, this government has been negotiating with them since 1955 for the release of Americans they hold as prisoners.

HISTORY OF REVIVALS

DETROIT (AP)—Historian Bernard Weisberger of Wayne University, says the beginning of American Revival meetings, of which Billy Graham is the leading contemporary exponent, goes back 158 years.

In a new book, "They Gather at the River," Weisberger says the first such meeting in this country was in the summer of 1800 on the banks of the Gaspar River, Ky.

Happy Times

Old Folks at Home Should

Count Their Blessings

BY MARIE DAERR

"Just returned from a party where some of my fellow goldenagers made my blood boil," wrote Mrs. Elia McF. "They were women who live with sons, daughters or grandchildren."

"All they did was complain about how the young folks treat them. They should thank their lucky stars someone wants them and makes it possible for them to get along on a lot less money than if they were going it alone—or with another old person."

"I live with a niece, after a year of rooming and sharing expenses with a woman my age, 65. So I know what I'm talking about."

"If old people would go to their rooms when the young folks are home, and not try to run the show, life would be a lot simpler and happier."

"We old folks lived our lives. Let the young folks enjoy theirs with their families. So, I say, Grandma, get out on Sundays and holidays and let the kids have their homes to themselves. Then they won't mind having you around the rest of the time."

"Believe me, it's no fun living alone. I consider myself lucky."

I'd say Mrs. McF's niece and her family are lucky, too. Like many other older people these days, Mrs. McF has found that getting along with others is a task that stays with you all through life.

You and I know that it isn't easy for a 60-year-old who was used to being Queen Bee in her own kitchen and living room to suddenly be sharing someone else's home.

But I'd say that Mrs. McF is using her head—and her heart. She knows that at 60, just as at 16, the world doesn't revolve around you—and that letting others live THEIR lives makes for happiness all around.

Q—I am a widow, 66. My husband's take-home pay was around $375 a month. I am now totally disabled from arthritis. However, I did manage to work until a few months ago. How much Social Security can I expect?—D. Z.

A—I can't answer your question, because you omitted such facts as the length of time your husband has been dead and your eligibility for Social Security payments based on your own earnings. As a widow, you would be entitled to receive three-fourths of your husband's primary benefit. You can receive EITHER this OR benefits based on your own earnings. Not both. I suggest you get in touch with your local Social Security office.

Q—My Social Security payments are so low I just can't get along. Can I get any help from state old-age assistance?—L. V.

A—Old-age assistance is sometimes given to supplement Social Security payments. Apply at your local office. The state determines whether or not you really need help, whether there is a close relative who can help, and how much you should be given.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Women in the Bible

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Bible, which is an amazing book of humanity as well as a book of divine guidance, somewhere in its many books portrays almost every sort of character and action, and not least in interest, are the women of the Bible.

The notion that "woman" in itself stands for goodness and greatness is dispelled by women such as Jezebel. But on the other hand, the position of women in the Bible stands out with strength and beauty all the more effulgent against the background of women's inferior position in much of the ancient world and in much of our own.

The Bible is remarkable for its love stories. The conception of woman as the object of love and devotion shines out in the story of Jacob and his serving seven years for Rachel, as well as in many other parts of the Old Testament. In the long and troubled history of the Jewish race the quality and sacredness of family life has been outstanding.

The greatness of individual woman is strongly emphasized. Above all, of course, is Mary, the Mother of Jesus. But noble types are in the Old Testament, too.

Hannah, the mother of Samuel, is the noble mother in the background of a great son, and the women of the Book of Ruth are examples of womanhood at its best.

To me, a fascinating character has always been Deborah, the woman judge, and in all history I think there have been few, if any, greater examples of a woman achieving distinguished leadership by sheer force of character. Her distinction was all the more remarkable considering the times, which were of unsettlement, evil violence, and peril.

The story of Deborah begins in Judges 4:4, and the chapter immediately preceding tells of Ehud's foul murder of Eglon, King of Moab. It is a terrible story, and one turns gladly to Deborah.

There was no court or settled government, but to the "palm tree of Deborah" people came for judgment, and apparently found satisfaction in her decisions.

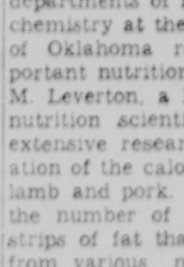

Deborah, moreover, was more than a judge. Her courage and morale were the strength of the times.

Barak, who ought to have been the military leader, wouldn't go to fight unless Deborah went with him (Judges 4:8). What a woman!

A western woman who served as a city official for 45 years was given a watch — probably for having the nerve to admit she was that old.

Research Reveals That Meat Fat Also Contains Protein

By GAYNOR MADDOX.

NEA Food and Markets Editor Here's important news for the meat buyer on a budget: The fat of pork is a little lower in caloric content than that of beef and veal. Also, the fat you often cut off your meat contains valuable protein.

A report just made by the departments of nutrition and biochemistry at the State University of Oklahoma reveals these important nutrition facts. Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, a leading American nutrition scientist, directed the extensive research in the reevaluation of the calories in beef, veal, lamb and pork. She reports that the number of calories in the strips of fat that can be cut off from various meats (separable fat) are practically the same.

Contrary to popular assumption, the separable fat of pork is a little lower in caloric content than that of beef and lamb. The fat of veal, however, is the lowest.

Dr. Leverton points out further that the fat you can easily cut off your meat contains not only energy, but also appreciable amounts of protein, also a third as much phosphorus and magnesium as the

Mrs. Jacobs Gives Lessons To Virginia WSCS

VIRGINIA—The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Virginia Methodist church met Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 June 10 with 19 members present. The meeting opened with quiet music by Mrs. Kerry at the piano and a prayer by Mrs. White.

Mrs. Tink read a poem and also told of the worship table and its meaning. Mrs. Robertson had the devotion and Mrs. Jacobs had the lesson, "Changing Patterns In the March of Missions."

Mrs. Herzberger gave a good report on the Methodist Youth Fellowship work and what they have accomplished this year. Each officer gave a report on what they had learned at the Officer's Training School held in Jacksonville. Mrs. White told of her trip to St. Louis, which was very interesting. She said there were about 10,000 women present.

It was voted to send $5.00 to the Cunningham Home. They also discussed the carpet, but no action was taken. Each member registered her name in the new W.S.C.S. book. The meeting closed with a prayer.

There were no hostesses for this meeting and no refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Christmas Tree Growers Plan Havana Meeting

Tomorrow is the last day to make reservations for the summer meeting of the Illinois Christmas Tree Growers' association, which will be held in Havana next Friday and Saturday. They may be made with Association President Glen Masie of Casswoods Industries, Beardstown, or Ralph E. Heinhorst of Havana, who is in charge of arrangements.

The meeting will open Friday afternoon at St. Paul's parish hall in Havana and continue through Saturday. The business session will follow dinner at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Saturday's tours will include the Mason State Tree nursery east of Havana, the Ralph E. Heinhorst tree farm east of Havana and the Mason state forest north of Forest City. Stops will be made at other plantations to see proper pruning methods for lumber production.

A. C. Hart of Arenzville is chairman of the nursery stock committee.

Breeders' Group Purchases Young Guernsey Bull

Virgil Vortman of Bluffs, dairyman in Scott county and Morgan-Scott chairman of the Southern Illinois Breeding association in Breese announces the purchase of a new Guernsey sire.

The youngster, Norgert's Royal Solitaire, was a year old last April 23. He was bred by Gertrude McNaught, Elgin, Ill., who consigned him to the 22nd Mid-West International Sale at St. Charles, Ill.

His sire, Foremost Quantity's Royal, is one of the better proven bulls of the breed, and his full sister has recently completed a Class Leading record, is first 17 daughters average 12,096 lbs. milk and 539 lbs. fat.

His dam, Leaside Champion Solitaire, Excellent, is a great brood cow and outstanding producer. As a 6 year-old she produced 17,133 lbs. milk and 888 lbs. fat on 2 milkings per day. She is a grand daughter of the great St. James Philosophy Barbee.

PISTOL RANGE WILL BE READY SOON

Law enforcement officers in the Jacksonville area will soon be able to sharpen their "shooting eyes" when construction of a 100 yard pistol-range is completed near the North Side disposal plant.

City Council action authorized the location of the range and city and state police officers have been hard at work building the range and preparing the ground for seeding. The range is fifty feet wide and three hundred feet long with a mound of earth more than fifteen feet high at the north end.

A concrete platform at the twenty-five foot mark for officers to stand during pistol practice has been donated by Carroll Rexroat, local contractor, and targets for what will be "the most modern of its type in the State" are under construction by Walter Leake, local machine shop owner.

Cass Board Approves $24,054 In Claims

VIRGINIA—The Cass County board of supervisors held the June meeting in the circuit court room of the courthouse in Virginia Monday, June 8. Claims in the amount of $24,054.79 were approved for payment. County officials' semi-annual reports were read and approved by the board.

Resolutions were adopted for two new road projects in the county including a $30,000 steel bridge over Prairie Creek, near Fricke hill on the Arenzville-Virginia blacktop road, and construction of 4.52 miles of new blacktop on the Beardstown-Arenzville road. Bridge on State Aid No. 10 will be financed through the county's share of the motor fuel tax funds.

Improvement to the Beardstown-Arenzville road will include a new roadbed of gravel or mashed stone and bituminous surfacing to be financed by the county's federal aid to roads fund and an equal amount by the government. The county's share will be approximately $60,000.

The board selected the following grand jurors for the October 1958 term of the Cass County Circuit Court:

Arenzville—John Musch, Margaret Crawford; Ashland—Marjorie Beadles, Lloyd Edwards; Beardstown—John Venters, Harold Zinn, Vernon Pilger.

Bluff Springs—Ursula Payne, Fred Cloyers; Chanderville—Eu-

Our Saviour's Hospital — Integral Part Of Our Community

This was the Yates residence as seen by the artist in 1870. Richard Yates was one of the two first graduates of Illinois College and was loved by Civil War soldiers as "The War Governor of Illinois."

The New Norris Wing A Prime Improvement To Beloved Institution

BY SISTER JOHN FRANCIS, C.S.C.

"Physically the Yates mansion section of Our Saviour's Hospital is gone. Actually, in the hearts of Holy Cross Sisters, it stands firm as a symbol of the best that Jacksonville has always given to its people by way of civic responsibility, culture and devoted care of the sick and the handicapped."

These are the words of Sister Magdala, C.S.C., administrator of Our Saviour's Hospital, in commenting on the demolition of the oldest sections of the hospital to make room for the immediate erection of the Dr. Frank A. Norris wing.

The proposed one million and a quarter dollar structure will be named for Jacksonville's renowned surgeon on two counts: his life-long dedication to Our Saviour's Hospital and his personal gift of $75,000.

The Norris wing will occupy the space cleared by demolition crews that last year razed the Yates mansion, the section built by the Holy Cross Sisters and the William Routt section built in 1898 as the first addition to Our Saviour's Hospital.

Yates Mansion Begun In 1839 The triple structure of the residence of Richard Yates (1818-1873) is evident in all pictures of the older building. On the west side was the modest dwelling to which the young law graduate of Illinois College took his lovely bride of seventeen, the former Catherine Geers. That was in 1839.

The central and east portions may be said to have measured Richard Yates' growth in public stature as he became successively state representative, congressman, governor and U. S. senator. Jacksonville was fast becoming the "Athens of the west." In 1829 a band of young Yale graduates founded Illinois College. A number of academies flourished, one of them, chartered in 1847, became the MacMurray College of today.

It is not without significance that one of the town's first residents was Catharine Carson, midwife, nurse and compassionate friend of the suffering and the handicapped. The School for the Deaf and the School for the Blind were both established before the Civil War. The Jacksonville State Hospital was founded by Dorothea Dix in 1847. In 1875 Pastor William Passavant and two deaconesses from Kaiserswerth, Germany, founded Passavant Hospital at its old site, a stone's throw from the Yates mansion.

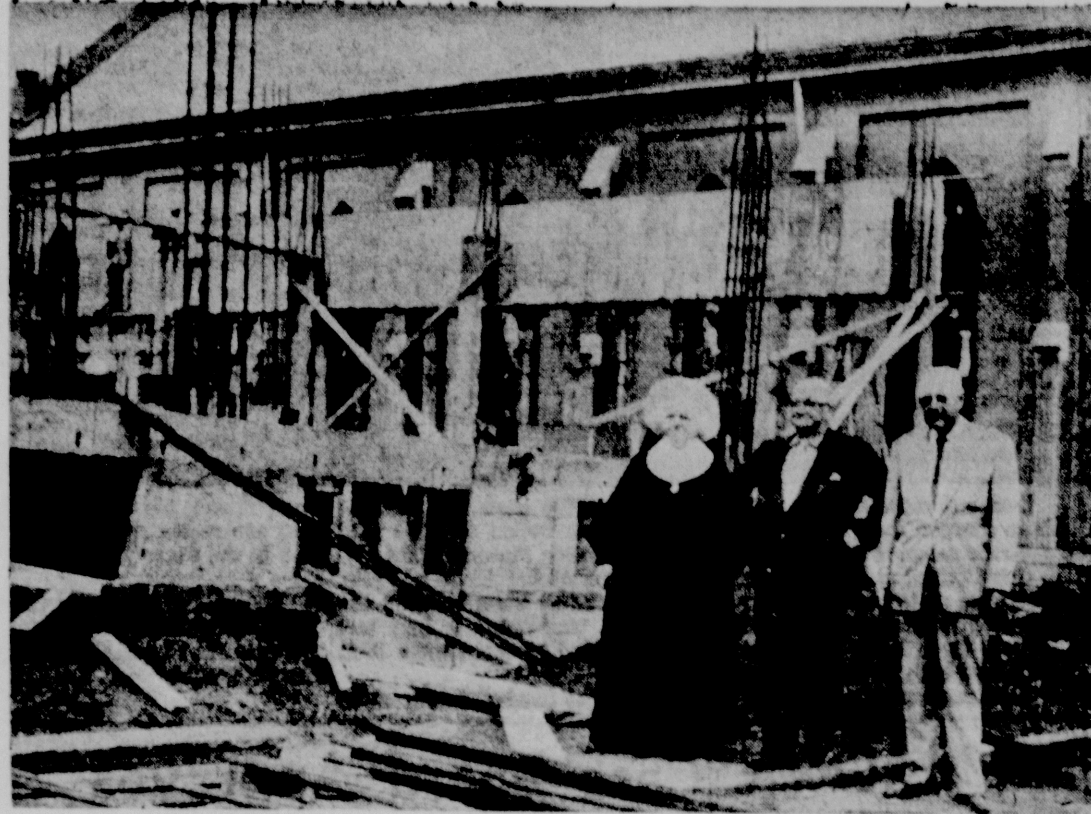

Of the 130 Illinois women commemorated in the Minna Schmidt figurines at the State Historical Museum in Springfield, 31 are of Jacksonville women. Two are directly connected with the Yates mansion, Catharine Geers Yates and Sister Josephine, who began the illustrious tradition of the Dominicans in Jacksonville. The Yates drawing room attracted all the great and the near great.

Grant and Yates It was Governor Yates who appointed Ulysses Grant to the post which led to his military triumph. It was President Grant who summoned from Jacksonville Sister Josephine and Sister Rachel, sister nurses of the Civil War, to unveil the Lincoln Memorial in Springfield in 1874. (Ellen Jolly, Nuns of the Battlefield, c1927). In these two Dominicans, the victorious general wished to honor the hundreds of Catholic Sisters of 20 religious orders who nursed the wounded and the dying in the conflict between the States.

When ex-President Grant toured the country in 1879 following his tour of the world, he stopped the parade before the already historic mansion to visit the widow of Governor Yates, who sat at the drawing room window.

Probably no one in this community is better informed on these events than Miss Jeanette Powell, 1064 West Lafayette. One of Miss Powell's favorite stories is of the friendship between the Catholic Dominican Sister Josephine and the Presbyterian wife of Illinois' Civil War governor. The Dominicans arrived in 1873. Sister Josephine was superior of the six Dominican Sisters who were sent from their motherhouse, St. Catherine's Convent, near Lexington, Ky., to teach in Our Saviour's parochial school and to establish a motherhouse in Jacksonville.

Sister Josephine had been a

leader of the Sisters of St. Catherine in their heroic service to the Blue and the Gray fallen at Perryville.

The seven newcomers to Jacksonville established themselves in a cottage which stood on the present site of the Little Theater of MacMurray College.

When the Sisters negotiated the purchase of the Yates property in 1885 for St. Rose's Academy and for a motherhouse, they experienced the civic responsibility and the philanthropy which is characteristic of Jacksonville. Charles Routt (1824-1895) provided $5,000 and the Sisters borrowed $3,000. The following year the new owners replaced the center and western sections of the dwelling with a three-story brick structure.

Center of Culture

The enlarged Yates drawing room became the center of the cultural life of the academy. Here in June, 1888, Julia Maier, the late Mrs. Anson Graef, gave a recital, for which she had written two original compositions. Sister Rachel and Sister Theresa were her teachers.

In July, 1889, St. Rose's Academy graduated from the "literary and scientific department." Rose Carroll, Katie Keating, Katie Donovan, Margaret Burke and Helen Zuchner; and from the St. Cecilia music department, Flora Ring.

The Dominican motherhouse and the academy were transferred to Springfield in 1892, but the Sisters maintained their convent on East Court street. For many years they taught in the building which is today occupied by the Holy Cross Central School of Nursing.

After a brief interval during which the commodious building on East State street served as parish rectory and Routt Club, the final chapter of the story of the historic Yates property opens with the arrival of the Sisters of the Holy Cross in 1896 to establish Our Saviour's Hospital.

Coming Of The Holy Cross Sisters Charles Routt, who passed away in 1895, left a legacy of $12,800 for the founding of a Sisters' hospital in Jacksonville. Events transpired rapidly. Nine local physicians petitioned the pastor of Our Saviour's parish, Father John Crowe, to assist in the immediate establishment of this much needed community organization. These five men and women were Drs. A. L. Adams, C. E. Black, Grace Dewey, J. W. Hargrove, Louis A. Malone, Josephine Milligan, W. K. McLaughlin, F. P. Norbury and T. J. Pitner.

The sisters of the Holy Cross of Notre Dame, Ind., were chosen, and on Aug. 26, 1896 at 3:00 a.m. they arrived in Jacksonville. These founders of Our Saviour's Hospital were Sister Lydia, superior; Sister DeSales, Sister Theodora, Sister Angelus, Sister Joachim, Sister Louis and Sister Ermin.

Holy Cross Central So unprepared was their building that they were not ready when the first demand for nursing care came to them.

Dr. Gillett, young associate of Dr. T. J. Pitner, sent to Our Saviour's Hospital three typhoid fever patients, children of the widower Edward Corrigan.

The former Yates drawing room, which had cradled St. Rose's Academy, now became the cradle of the new hospital. The Sisters set up three beds, curtaining off one for John, age 14. The others were for Mary, age 11, and Maggie, age 9. That was Oct. 22, 1896.

The simple facts about these children head the file of patients' records at Our Saviour's today. Sister Ermin was their special nurse. Mary and Maggie became respectively Mrs. John Hicks, 415 North Fayette, and Mrs. W. F. Cook, 609 South Church.

The Holy Cross Sisters in Jacksonville continued the tradition of the Civil War. Sister Lydia and Sister DeSales had been among the 63 Holy Cross Sisters who served as U.S. Army nurses in nine hospitals from Missouri to Washington, D.C. Sister Victoria, also a Sister Army nurse, was to come to Our Saviour's at a later date.

Sister Lydia's stay in Jacksonville was interrupted by the Spanish American War. This veteran Sister Army nurse was appointed Chief of Army nurses at Camp Hamilton near Lexington, Ky. The post made her responsible for other Holy Cross Sisters, the Sisters of St. Joseph, the Sisters of Charity and the "trained female contract nurses." Sister Lydia's assignment took her to Cuba and to Washington to report to the President.

In recognition for her services, Sister Lydia was awarded the Army Medal for Distinguished Service.

Preparation of Nurses Crucial No story of Our Saviour's Hospital would be complete according to Sister Magdala, without the story of its formal preparation of nurses.

On her return to Jacksonville in 1903, Sister Lydia as hospital superintendent tried to face squarely the problem of the adequate preparation of nurses. That first year she purchased textbooks, but, as the archives bluntly state, there was no time for their use. The nurses were working 12 hours a day, as were employees in other areas.

The Training School for Nurses was formally opened on Oct. 6, 1908. Sister Cordelia, an associate of Sister Lydia at Camp Hamilton, was in charge. The program lapsed for lack of students. In 1918 Dr. Frank A. Norris and Dr. E. D. Canatsey gave two lectures a week for two months to the Sisters. In the year 1920-1921 three nurses went to MacMurray College, then Illinois Woman's College, for extra classes. The training school was registered with the Illinois State Board in January, 1922.

On Feb. 9, 1922, Sister Athanasius, who died in January, who was the medical technologist in charge of the laboratory at Our Saviour's Hospital for many years, received her diploma in the graduating class of four Sisters and three secular nurses.

In the graduating ceremonies of May 12, 1924, Father Francis P. Formaz, pastor of Our Saviour's parish, conferred the diplomas and Dr. Garm Norbury, dean of the training school, delivered the address.

The Challenge of Today To this day, Monsignor Formaz and Dr. Norbury are unfailing friends and wise counselors of Our Saviour's Hospital. They can be counted on to understand that the nurse who will serve in the Norris Wing must be prepared differently from the nurse who was trained before the recent remarkable advances in the health sciences.

On her return to Jacksonville

A hospital building is worthless without nurses. Three students in Holy Cross School of Nursing are shown here: Donna Dunnagan of Roodhouse, Anna Jones of Arenzville and Rose Marie Riley of Jacksonville.

"The challenge of today," to Sister Magdala, "is to educate a bedside nurse who combines the personal dedication to the patient of the early nurse with Our Saviour's with the scientific knowledge and skills that enable her to give comprehensive nursing care under the direction of doctors experienced in the amazing advances in medicine and surgery."

Holy Cross Central School of Nursing has undertaken this difficult task.

The challenge of good bedside nursing is ultimately a challenge to the young women of the Jacksonville area, Sister Magdala believes. For those who need financial assistance, the community provides the Catharine Carson Loan Fund for Student Nurses. This fund is supported by voluntary contributions in accordance with the traditions of the community. In its name, the fund perpetuates the memory and the ideals of the great pioneer nurse and midwife, who arrived in Jacksonville in 1825 when the town was being platted.

Epilogue To complete the account of the heritage presented by the Yates mansion, it should be pointed out that, in a certain sense, the famed drawing room cradled the Norris Wing, as it had cradled St. Rose's Academy and Our Saviour's Hospital.

Early in her administration Sister Claudine remodelled this part of the first floor into a guest dining area and conference room. It was in this room that plans for the expansion of Our Saviour's Hospital were initiated and were developed. And it was in this room that Sister Magdala so often reiterated her views about the relationship of the hospital to the people of the area.

"Our Saviour's Hospital belongs to the people of Jacksonville and the surrounding communities," Sister Magdala has often declared. "It belongs to the people more than if it had been built by public officials. Citizens have had a part in its planning, they are financing the new wing, and they will have a share in its construction, the administrator believes."

"What is most important of all," Sister Magdala says, "is that the people inspired it. The Sisters of the Holy Cross own Our Saviour's Hospital," she says, "but they hold it in a sort of trusteeship that the people of the Jacksonville area may have access to its services and so may enjoy a more abundant life."

THE FAMED CARSON ROSEBUSH, transplanted from Jacksonville to Holy Cross Central School of Nursing in South Bend, Ind., in 1954, shows that summer is late in coming this year. Tending the plant are Miss Theresa Pohlman, Greenfield, Ill., and Miss Gloria Roesch, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Roesch, 510 North Diamond street, Jacksonville.

The original moss rose was planted in Jacksonville in 1825 by Catharine Carson, pioneer nurse and midwife. Our Saviour's Hospital maintains, for student nurses, a loan fund named for "Nurse" Carson.

With freshman classmates, Miss Pohlman and Miss Roesch will take up residence at Holy Cross Central School of Nursing at Our Saviour's hospital on June 15 to begin their clinical assignments there.

Pictorial Story Of Msgr. Formaz' Service In Jacksonville

AS HE LOOKED 57 YEARS AGO—Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis F. Formaz was a young man with much work to do when he arrived in Jacksonville in 1901. As assistant pastor of the Church of Our Saviour he intended to stay only a few months or years. All but a few of his 60 years in the priesthood have been spent here. He was appointed pastor of the parish in 1916.

In recognition of his Diamond Jubilee a Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving will be sung tomorrow morning, Monday, June 16, at 10:30 o'clock at the church.

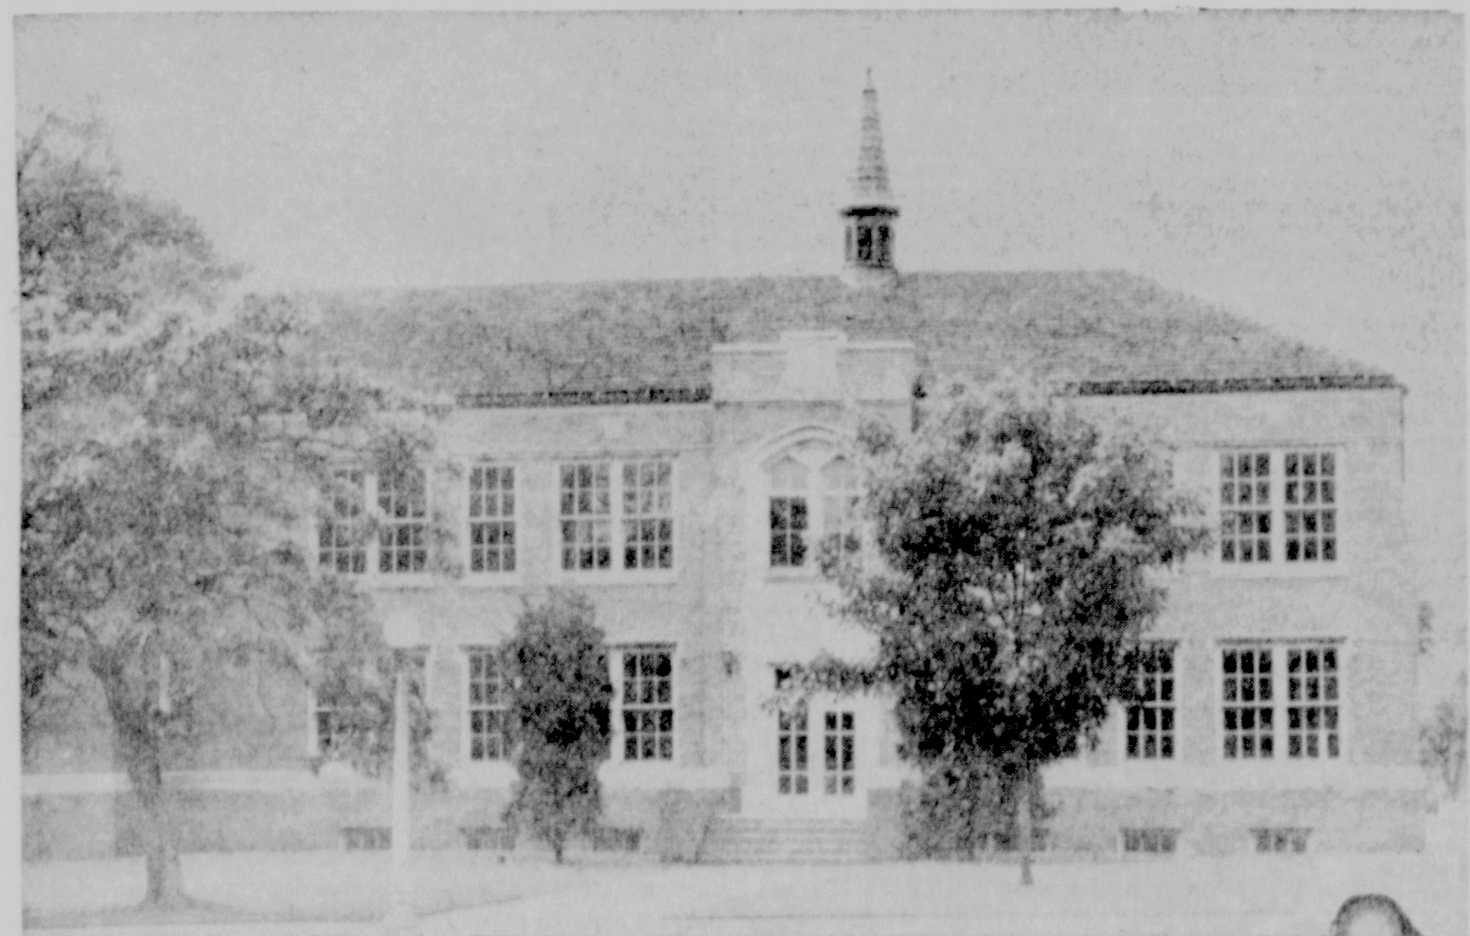

His Excellency, the Most Rev. William A. O'Connor, Bishop of the Diocese of Springfield, will officiate at the Mass, which will be attended by a large number of the Clergy.

Msgr. Formaz has been a patient at Our Saviour's hospital for some time, but hopes to be able to attend the Mass.

One of Jacksonville's most familiar and stately landmarks is the Church of Our Saviour on East State street, where the Jubilarian has served since 1901, first as assistant—then as pastor. The rectory is located directly east of the church.

Routt College High School, which Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz helped to found and organize, has for more than a half century been one of the community's important centers of learning. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz directed the activities of the school and taught there for many years.

Our Saviour's elementary school, a modern educational plant adjacent to Routt College High school, was built under supervision of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz. The combination gymnasium-auditorium, a spacious room in the school building, was named Formaz Hall in his honor.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz as he was being escorted to the church with His Excellency, the Most Rev. William A. O'Connor, who invested him with the robes of a Domestic Prelate in 1954. Tomorrow Bishop O'Connor will return for another ceremony—the Diamond Jubilee of Msgr. Formaz in the priesthood.

This photograph was taken at the 1957 commencement of Routt College High School, as Rt. Rev. Msgr. Formaz administered his blessing to the graduating class. This was the last commencement he attended before his recent illness.

Mrs. Ronald Lee Cobren

Joan Anderson And Ronald Cobren Wed At Virginia Methodist Church

VIRGINIA—Saturday afternoon, June 14, at two o'clock, in the Virginia Methodist church, Miss Joan Anderson of Virginia, became the bride of Ronald Lee Cobren of Decatur.

The vows were received by Rev. Paul DuBois, pastor of the church, using the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar, beautifully decorated in pink and white roses and ferns, by her father.

Mrs. Lyle Turner, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Wayne Walter of Virginia, classmate of the bride, as he sang "Because" and as the couple knelt, "The Lord's Prayer."

Wed At Winchester

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Moore

WINCHESTER—Miss Barbara Bartlett of Abey and Donald J. Moore of Winchester were united in marriage Saturday morning, June 14, by the Rev. J. J. Sullivan, pastor of St. Mark's Catholic Church.

The bride wore a short length dress of white and yellow with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Her attendant wore green with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The ceremony was witnessed by members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nettie Bartlett of Abey and the late Walter D. Bartlett. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Moore.

The couple left on a short wedding trip. They expect to make their home west of Winchester where the groom is engaged in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gordon Hess

Larry Hess, Judith Talbert Wed At Fairfield Church

Miss Judith Ann Talbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lyman Talbert of Fairfield, and Larry Gordon Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hess of 895 Route street, Jacksonville, were married Sunday afternoon, June eighth, at 3:30 by the Rev. W. M. Henderson in a double ring ceremony at the First Methodist Church in Fairfield.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Robert VanBuskirk was matron of honor. Miss Jean Hess of Belleville, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Miss Betty Ann Brubaker of Litchfield, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The ring bearer was Tonnie Brubaker and the flower girl was Nancy Brubaker, both of Litchfield and cousins of the bride.

Don Hess of Indianapolis, a brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Robert VanBuskirk of Fairfield, and Charles Finch of Jacksonville, a fraternity brother of the groom. The men wore white coats and black trousers.

The bride's gown was imported chintilly lace over tulle and satin fashioned with a molded bodice and traditional long sleeves tapered to a point. The high neckline had a motif of bride-ance on tulle giving an off-the-shoulder look. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train.

A huge white satin bustle bow was worn at the middle of the back. The fingertip veil, edged with imported chintilly lace, was worn with a satin cap trimmed in sequins and iridescent pearls.

The bride's bouquet was white orchids and roses.

The attendants and flower girls were in mint green taffeta with a harem hemline and a wide cummerbund of darker green terminating in a bustle bow at the back. They wore veiled headbands of matching taffeta and tulle.

The matron of honor carried a pink rose shower bouquet and the other attendants carried yellow rose bouquets.

The mother of the bride wore a beige lace sheath dress with a matching taffeta bow on the side, square neckline, and a beige lace picture hat and matching shoes. She carried beige and brown cymbidium orchids.

The mother of the groom wore grey lace over pink taffeta and carried an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Don Hess sang "I Love Thee," "Because," and "The Wedding Prayer." Dan Greer was at the organ.

The church was decorated with tall candelabra holding white tapers. Baskets of gladioli and greenery were on each side of the altar.

A reception was held in the church basement where the tables were decorated with a bridal bouquet in the center, tall silver candelabras on each side, a compote of mints and nuts, the wedding cake at one end and the punch bowl at the other.

The bride and groom cut the five-tiered wedding cake in the traditional manner.

Mrs. Marcia Talbert, cousin of the bride, cut the cake assisted by another cousin, Mrs. Charles Suddarth and Mrs. James Coale.

Miss Karol Warren of Mt. Vernon served the punch.

Mrs. Ben Nation, Jr. kept the guest register.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Rockaway Beach in Missouri and will return to their home in Champlain.

Mr. Hess is employed in the bursar's office at the University of Illinois and will continue his studies at the university.

Mrs. Hess expects to continue her work here next winter.

Miss Ada Howell Feted At Shower In Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE—Mrs. W. L. Worcester and Mrs. Margaret Sullivan were co-hostesses at a luncheon, Thursday, complimenting their friend, Miss Ada Howell of Springfield, former Roodhouse resident, whose approaching marriage to Henry Naylor, Jacksonville, has been announced.

Miss Howell received a shower of miscellaneous gifts from those present. Following the luncheon, two booklets, "This Is Your Life," were prepared as souvenirs of the party by the guests. Bridal bingo was a feature of the social hour, and the guest of honor was surprised when the prizes were gathered up and presented to her.

Present besides the two hostesses and the guest of honor were Mesdames Ethelyn Cuddy, Virginia McIver, J. W. Keller, J. Lee Hopkins, W. J. Allen, John W. Roberts, W. W. Wilkinson and Miss Mabel Hopkins, Roodhouse; Mrs. A. R. McConathy, White Hall; Miss Leta Sullivan and Mrs. Flossie Neal, Jacksonville.

The soloist for the preceding recital was Miss Mary Jane Amberg of Cherokee, Iowa, college suitemate of the bride, who sang, "With This Ring I Thee Wed."

"Because" and "Wedding Prayer" accompanied at the organ by Miss Charlotte Sunderland of Murrayville, another college friend of the bride.

The dress was made by the bride's cousin, Miss Anna Butler of St. Louis, Mo.

Her headpiece was a lace crown embroidered with pearls to hold a fingertip length veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of yellow roses and white carnations.

Mrs. F. G. (Donna) McGrady of Hillsboro, Ind. was her sister's matron of honor, and her bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Alexander, Anderson, Ind., another college friend, Miss Gwendolyn Rawlings, a sister of the groom, and Miss Shila Nagreen of Appleton, Wis., another college classmate.

Robert Rawlings of Jacksonville was his cousin's best man and Dr. F. G. McGrady, brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsmen as were Kennedy Boyd, Waverly and Eddie Lee Thompson, Jacksonville, a cousin of the groom.

The bride and groom were James Summers, brother of the bride, Denny Albers, Bluffs, cousin of the groom, and Charles Johnston, Waverly.

The attendants were gowned alike in pastel yellow organza over taffeta. The street length frocks were very full skirted with draped material about the bodice to form an off-the-shoulder effect.

The waistlines of the dresses were encircled with yellow satin forming soft bows at the back. Their headpieces were flat bows of yellow bows. Each carried, resting on her shoulder, a white lace parasol tied with yellow satin ribbon and decorated with yellow daisies.

The bride's mother chose beige lace for her daughter's wedding with a matching lace hat and beige accessories. Her corsage was yellow carnations.

The mother of the groom wore blue sheer with white accessories and her flowers were pink carnations.

A reception was held in the parlors of the church immediately following the ceremony. Yellow and white were used in decorating. The serving table was centered with an arrangement of yellow mums and daisies flanked with tapers. The bride's cake was three tiered, frosted white, and trimmed in yellow. Cake was served with yellow tinted punch, mints and nutmeats.

Assisting with the serving were Miss Eunice Grubbe, Jerseyville, college friend of the bride and punch was served by Mrs. Barbara Brown, Greenfield, a cousin of the bride. Guests were registered by Miss Frances Thiel, Jerseyville, college friend of the bride and Miss Julie Smith of Evanston, another college friend, was in charge of the gifts.

Others assisting at the reception included Mrs. Clyde Miesher, Mrs. Claude Ross, Mrs. George Handy, Mrs. Irving Hunt, Mrs. Orvil Rouland and Mrs. George Connolly.

After a short trip the newlyweds will be at home at 413 West College avenue in Jacksonville. For her going-away costume, the bride wore a green and blue summer cotton with matching hat and white accessories and the white carnation corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Rawlings graduated in 1955 from Waverly High School and this coming fall will be a senior at MacMurray College. For the summer she has accepted a position at the Jacksonville State Hospital. The groom graduated from the same high school in 1953 and will be a senior this fall at Bradley University in Peoria. He is employed for the summer in the state highway department.

Special guests attended the ceremony and reception from Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Arizona, Indiana and areas in the Waverly community.

STUFFY TALE NORFOLK, Va. (P)—Bearded Al Millikan, who wears chateaux trousers, a gold belt and an orange T-shirt and carries a stuffed fox, appeared in court on charges of disorderly conduct. He explained to the judge that a man threatened to kick his fox into the street and that he loved the fox. Millikan suggested the man kick him instead. The stranger did Millikan said he was just expressing his feelings when the policeman arrived.

ROODHOUSE—The American Legion Auxiliary of Post 373 has elected officers for the 1958-1959 year as follows: president, Marie Lecher; first vice president, Ann Chrisman; second vice president, Ruth Pollard; treasurer, Essie Berry; chaplain, Nona Fry Ruby Denny of the nominating committee presented the slate.

ROODHOUSE—Mrs. Mae Adams, Moberly, Mo., is visiting at the home of her sisters, Mesdames Amelia Andrews and Virginia McIver, and with other friends.

Mrs. Donald J. Rawlings

Anna Summers And Donald Rawlings Wed

WAVERLY—Miss Anna M. lace for her daughter's wedding Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers and Donald J. Rawlings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Rawlings, were united in marriage at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 8, at the First Methodist church. The pastor, the Reverend Ralph Fitch, performed the double ring ceremony in which the father of the bride gave her in marriage.

Tapers in candelabra and ferns adorned the altar of the church making an impressive background for baskets of glads and mums. Candies at the altar were lighted during the prelude by Miss Johnnie Rawlings, sister of the groom, and Larry Summers, brother of the bride.

The soloist for the preceding recital was Miss Mary Jane Amberg of Cherokee, Iowa, college suitemate of the bride, who sang, "With This Ring I Thee Wed."

"Because" and "Wedding Prayer" accompanied at the organ by Miss Charlotte Sunderland of Murrayville, another college friend of the bride.

Nuptials At Centenary Church Unite Nancy Lee Godfrey And Joseph Sommers

Nuptial vows were exchanged between Miss Nancy Lee Godfrey and Joseph Brant Sommers in an impressive ceremony performed Sunday afternoon, June eighth, at Centenary Methodist church. The Reverend Harvey Dibrell officiated at the double ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The former Miss Godfrey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Godfrey, 1534 South East street. The bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sommers, 505 South Diamond street.

Baskets of white glads and palms, adorned the altar illuminated with the glow of tapers in branched candelabra.

Before the ceremony Miss Laura Smith sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and at the close of the service "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Miss Gladys Howard who played the traditional wedding processional and recessional.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gerald Walz, was her matron of honor. Her two bridesmaids were Miss Judith Lee Taylor and a cousin, Miss Sandra Mae Goldsmith, both of this city.

Donald May attended the groom and groomsmen were Robert Smith of Jacksonville and Larry Humble of Cincinnati, Ohio. Ushers were Leroy Jackson, Jr., Lee Bridgman, David Lancaster of Peoria, a fraternity brother of the groom and Richard Sellers, this city.

Unadorned Organdy Gown
The lovely blonde bride wore a wedding gown of white, embroidered organdy fashioned by her mother and an aunt, Mrs. Roscoe Godfrey. The elaborately embroidered dress had a snug fitting bodice, a Sabrina cut neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands.

The very full skirt, worn over graduated hoops, was in tiers of scalloped edged embroidered material that formed a modified V at the back and fell into a Chapel length sweep. A fingertip length veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a small hat trimmed with sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible that had belonged to her late grandfather, John Godfrey, topped with a satin tied white orchid.

The attendants were gowned identically in ballerina length gowns of blue embroidered organdy over blue taffeta with taffeta sashes and wide bows. The dresses were very full skirted and worn with picture hats and shoes in matching blue. They carried white lace fans affixed with blue carnations.

Mrs. Godfrey, mother of the bride, wore pastel blue lace and chiffon with white accessories. Her flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Sommers, mother of the groom, chose royal blue lace and chiffon with a blue feather hat and blue accessories.

Ceremony At Trinity Episcopal Church Unites Marian Locela Corey And Thomas Dean Clark

The Reverend George D. Clark, Rector at Trinity Episcopal church, performed the double ring ceremony Tuesday evening, June tenth, uniting in marriage Miss Marian Locela Corey and his son, Thomas Dean Clark.

Friends and relatives of the couple viewed the exchange of vows before the altar decorated with ferns and white flowers. Acolytes were Robert and John Bellatti.

Before the ceremony Mrs. John Gillespie, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Walter R. Bellatti, sang two selections that had been sung at the wedding of the bride's maternal grandmother, "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Still Wie Die Nacht," by Greig and Bohm.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Howard Corey, 229 Finley street; and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Clark, reside at 825 Grove street.

Two college classmates and a close friend attended the bride. Her maid of honor was Miss Laura Smith and her bridesmaid Miss Annabel Berg of Indianapolis, Indiana. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Linda Hartman.

Joan Bradish and Patricia Lippert were the flower girls and the bride's small brother, Christopher, was the ringbearer. The rings were carried on a silver tray that belonged to the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. George Chase.

The groom's brother of Fulton, Missouri, was best man, David Corey, brother of the bride, and Donald Pruitt were groomsmen. Ushers were Robert Engebrecht and Cary Andras, Jr.

Given in Marriage
Dr. Corey gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a formal floor length gown of white point of eclair fashioned with a fitted bodice coming to a point at the waistline. The redingote type skirt was very bouffant created by double bands of embroidered lace woven into net.

The gown's shoulder V neckline was bordered with bands of lace which also formed the brief sleeves. A band of taffeta, set just below the decollete lines gave a graceful effect to the gown. The bride's only white accessories were pearls, a gift from her bridegroom. She carried with a white prayer book, a gift of Patty Lippert, an arrangement of white orchids with lily-of-the-valley and stephanotis.

The attendants wore ballerina length gowns of white nylon with embroidered floral sprays in aqua colored thread. Matching aqua white trimmed the shoulder and neckline of the gowns and each wore a wide brimmed horsehair hat in the same aqua shade.

The little flower girls wore the same costume with orange blossom headresses and carried flower filled aqua baskets. The maid of honor, bridesmaid and junior maid carried aqua tinted Shasta daisies.

Mrs. Corey, mother of the bride, wore grey chiffon and lace. She wore a family heirloom necklace that had been given to her great-great-grandmother, Mary Ann Chase, on her wedding day. The necklace, now the property of Mrs. Corey's mother, is jade with gold and was fashioned in India.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, wore blue lace with matching color accessories. Her flowers were white carnations and Mrs. Corey's were green carnations.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Epperson of Detroit, Michigan, and the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. W. C. Corey and Mrs. M. C. Schaeffer, both of Jacksonville, were present for the ceremony and reception that followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Guests were served punch, party sandwiches, minis and numerous. Assisting were members of MacMurray's Town Girls club, Agnes Carson, Charlotte Sunderland, Judy Lukeman, David, Lois Pontius, Nancy Coultas, Ruth Goheen, Hannah Haneline and Bonnie Young. Also Barbara Johnston of Galesburg, Michigan, a college classmate of the bride, Mrs. Philip Bradish, Mrs. Robert Hartman and Mrs. John Spencer, junior assistants were Mary Andras, Janice Bradish, Barbara Lippert, Betsy Heidinger, Ellen Spencer, Rebecca Bealmer and Suzanne Hartman.

When the couple left for a short trip to Chicago, the bride was wearing a peacock silk costume ensemble with matching linen coat and white accessories. They are now making their home at 404 East Elm street in Urbana.

The groom is a graduate student at the University of Illinois working toward his master's degree. The couple will take a belated honeymoon to Europe next June.

Mrs. Clark graduated from the local high school and this June received her degree from MacMurray College where she also received the Town Girls award and the French Award. Prior to her graduation, Marjorie studied at Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., and one summer at the University of Mexico. During her senior year she was president of Theta Sigma society at MacMurray.

Mr. Clark graduated this June from Illinois College where he was a member of Sigma Phi. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Al Lucker of Toledo, Ohio, uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clark, Morton Grove, another uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harlowe of Alton and Mr. and Mrs. Milford Corey of Decatur, great uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Thomas Edgar Yeates

Nancy Hutchens And Thomas Yeates Wed In Church Ceremony In City

An afternoon ceremony Saturday, June seventh, at Grace Methodist church in this city united in marriage Miss Nancy Caroline Hutchens of this city and Thomas Edgar Yeates of Collinsville. The double ring service was read by the pastor, Dr. Frank Marston.

Altar vases held bouquets of white glads tied with satin ribbon. Palms and fern with white tapers burning in candelabra completed the altar adornment. Candles at the altar were lighted before the ceremony by John Martin Hutchens, brother of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Hutchens, 1337 West Lafayette avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Yeates of Collinsville.

Before the wedding party entered the church Miss Laura Smith sang, "I Love Thee," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because." Mrs. Gary Mitchell was organist and played the traditional processional and recessional.

Wears Original Gown
The dark haired bride was lovely in an original gown of white nylon organdy. Lavishly embroidered the fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline with the embroidery pattern extending to the sleeves which were long and tapered to points over the wrists. Satin bands detailed the snug elongated waistline and extended to the back forming a large bow the streamers of which followed the lines of the bouffant skirt that fell entrain. A queen's crown held secure the bride's veil of illusion. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses with lily.

Attending the bride was her maid of honor, Miss Olive Brown, of Cranston, Rhode Island and her bridesmaid, Miss Harriet Horton of Oak Park, Illinois. The bride's small cousin, Cynthia Jane Thibault of Belle Glade, Florida, was flower girl.

Richard Yeates of Edwardsville attended his brother as best man. Another brother, Robert Yeates of Collinsville, was groomsmen. Ushers were George Potter of Kaskaskia and Wayne Black of East St. Louis.

The bride's attendants wore pink nylon organdy and carried bouquets of pink aristocrat roses.

Mrs. Hutchens, mother of the bride, wore mauve silk organdy with a brimmed white lace hat and white accessories. Mrs. Yeates, the groom's mother, chose blue silk organdy with white accessories. Both mothers wore gardenias.

Reception at Smith House
A reception was held following the ceremony at the David A. Smith House, Illinois College campus. Assisting with the serving were the following cousins of the bride, Mrs. John Klader of Wood River, Mrs. W. L. Cordes, also of Wood River and Mrs. William Thibault, Belle Glade, Florida.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, wore blue lace with matching color accessories. Her flowers were white carnations and Mrs. Corey's were green carnations.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Epperson of Detroit, Michigan, and the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. W. C. Corey and Mrs. M. C. Schaeffer, both of Jacksonville, were present for the ceremony and reception that followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Guests were served punch, party sandwiches, minis and numerous. Assisting were members of MacMurray's Town Girls club, Agnes Carson, Charlotte Sunderland, Judy Lukeman, David, Lois Pontius, Nancy Coultas, Ruth Goheen, Hannah Haneline and Bonnie Young. Also Barbara Johnston of Galesburg, Michigan, a college classmate of the bride, Mrs. Philip Bradish, Mrs. Robert Hartman and Mrs. John Spencer, junior assistants were Mary Andras, Janice Bradish, Barbara Lippert, Betsy Heidinger, Ellen Spencer, Rebecca Bealmer and Suzanne Hartman.

When the couple left for a short trip to Chicago, the bride was wearing a peacock silk costume ensemble with matching linen coat and white accessories. They are now making their home at 404 East Elm street in Urbana.

The groom is a graduate student at the University of Illinois working toward his master's degree. The couple will take a belated honeymoon to Europe next June.

Mrs. Clark graduated from the local high school and this June received her degree from MacMurray College where she also received the Town Girls award and the French Award. Prior to her graduation, Marjorie studied at Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., and one summer at the University of Mexico. During her senior year she was president of Theta Sigma society at MacMurray.

Entre Nous Toastmistress Club Marks 10th Anniversary

The Entre Nous Toastmistress Club of Jacksonville celebrated its tenth anniversary with a Charter dinner and program at Hamilton's Cafe Sunday, June 8. All member clubs of International Toastmistress Council 3 including Topnotch Club of Bloomington, Twin City Club of Champaign-Urbana, Springfield, Danville, C.D. of A. Club of Springfield, and the Decatur Club were extended invitations to attend the celebration.

Toastmistress members attending from Decatur were Martha Allison, Chairman of Council No. 3, Bernice Dixon, Secretary of Council No. 3, and Martha Cope and Arlene Recchia; from Springfield Club Dorothy Sheer and Alice Bayer; and from C. D. of A. Club Mary Howard, Catherine Adams and Mabel Raye. Jacksonville guests were Doris Biggs, Bernadine Bush, Virginia Teter, Kathleen Coenen, Betty Jane Ryan, Mary Whalen, Lillian Joyce, Ann Ring, Alma Langdon and Margaret Clancy.

Each guest was presented a replica of the gold seal inscribed with her name and souvenir Japanese fans imprinted "Entre Nous 1948-1958." Table decorations of blue delphinium and daisies carried out Toastmistress colors of blue and gold. The original Charter received in March, 1948 from Toastmistress International was a part of the centerpiece at the Speakers Table. The programs were replicas of the Toastmistress Charter with blue and gold ribbons. Mary Minks and Harriet Lockman were co-chairmen for decorations.

The invocation was given by Emma Lonergan, president of Entre Nous Toastmistress Club welcomed the guests and called on Catherine Adams of C. D. of A. Club of Springfield for Table Topics. Miss Adams has chosen "Fashion" as the subject for Topics, and asked comments of Rosa Walsh, Bernice Dixon, Alice Bayer, Mabel Raye, Geraldine Taylor, Doris Biggs, and Edith Conway.

Helen Devlin Kaiser here, Helen Devlin Kaiser of Champaign, Ill. served as Toastmistress for the occasion. As the first president of Entre Nous Toastmistress Club she had received the original Charter in 1948 from Marguerite Grumme of St. Louis, who was then a First Vice President of International Toastmistress Clubs. Mrs. Kaiser recalled some of the early days of the organization, and asked Marie Saner to give additional "Reminiscences."

Mary Ritchie, member of Entre Nous Toastmistress Club, spoke on "Investments" and the value of Toastmistress training to women in the business world. Dorothy Sheer, of Springfield was Evaluator for the meeting.

Charter members who are now active Entre Nous members are Marie Saner and Geraldine Taylor. Other Charter members were Emma Bergschneider, Helen Curtis, Anne Devlin, Helen Devlin, Mrs. James T. Flynn, Betty Hall, Rose Krusz, Rose Wagner, Eleanor Ring, and Mrs. Harold Walker.

Federation Day Program At Arcadia Club Meeting

The Arcadia Woman's Club met at Arcadia Hall Wednesday, June 11, at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Harold McGinnis, president, presided. The meeting opened with the group singing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Fred Standley, music chairman, at the piano. The pledge of allegiance followed.

Roll call was answered by 22 members, naming a Federation Project and payment of dues. Miss Frances Ater was a guest. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Thomas Parlier, reading the 20th Psalm. After a silent prayer for the absent and ill members, Mrs. Parlier led the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Ireland Thompson, secretary, gave her report and read thank-you notes to the club for flowers sent. Mrs. Andrew Wheeler, treasurer, read her report. Outstanding bills were ordered paid. The club collect was read in unison.

The president thanked the Memorial Day Service committee; the special committee to buy hall equipment, and all general committees for co-operation in the past year.

Words of appreciation were extended to Mrs. Oren Mallicoat, outgoing treasurer, for her splendid job. The "Special" committee reported and told about the new articles chosen for the hall.

A report of the County meeting was given by the president. Nine club members attended. Eleven members attended the district meeting held in Carrollton.

The Arcadia Club press book won first prize in its class at the District convention. Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture assembled the press book from Journal Courier news items reported by Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie, and also the spot news on W.L.D.S.

This year's program chairman, Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie, explained the new program book and told of the intentions of the program committee. Equally assisting were Mrs. Clarence Mallicoat, Mrs. Thomas Parlier and Mrs. Harold McGinnis.

Burgoo Committee

The burgoo committee named by the president for this year is Mrs. Lark Buck, chairman; Mrs. Virgil Parry and Mrs. Byron McGinnis. The secretary, Mrs. Ireland Thompson, announced that there are 5 members with a perfect attendance last year. Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture, Mrs. Walker Henderson, Mrs. Clarence Mallicoat, Mrs. Thomas Parlier and Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie.

Federation Day

The theme for the program at the meeting was "Federation Day." Mrs. Ireland Thompson and Mrs. Lark Buck read an article prepared at National Headquarters. "This is Your Federation." Fourteen members were given

STARR AND CAST—Songstress Kay Starr shows the audience her "supporting cast" while performing at the Sahara night club in Las Vegas. It was the first stage appearance for Kay since she fractured her leg in a skiing mishap several months ago. She'll be wearing the cast for another two months. Meanwhile, the show goes on.

4-H Club Activities

A cooking demonstration school followed the regular meeting of the Chapin Top Notchers 4-H club held June 3 at the Chapin high school. The members attending the school were Gayle Riger, Delores Thompson, Mary Kay LaKamp and Mary Anne Atchison. The girls were taught the proper way to give demonstrations and each girl made a batch of cookies.

The regular meeting was opened by the pledge of allegiance led by Jean Carrigan and Judy Detmer. The whole group then sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Roll call was read and answered by a favorite food. An announcement was given concerning the county electrical school and Gloria Fisher was chosen to be the club candidate in the Miss Morgan County contest.

A committee was appointed to make posters for the contest as follows: Jackie Shepard, Sandra Audenkamp, Pam Reuter, Kathy Detmer and Mary Kay LaKamp.

A talk, "How to use a Cloth Guide," was given by Nancy Williams. Other talks were "Before You Begin to Sew" by Sandra Audenkamp; "Steps in Making Good Pastry" by Jackie Shepard; "Meal Planning in Relation to Outdoor Meals" by Phyllis Wilder and "Table Etiquette" by Janet Schumacher.

A reading, "What 4-H Means to Me" was given by Sandra Audenkamp. A poem, "The Forty-First Psalm," was read by Phyllis Wilder, and the song "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" was played by Carolyn and Maxine Lael.

The meeting closed with the 4-H pledge by Betty Schone. Refreshments of ice cream floats were served by the refreshment committee consisting of Betty Schone, Laura Mueller, Gayle Riger and Nancy Williams.

The Lucky Clover 4-H club met June 7 at 228 West College avenue according to Mary Lou Shanshan, reporter for the club. Wanda Peters presided at the meeting.

Business items taken up included appointing a committee for the Share the Fun program. Betty Corbridge gave a talk on good manners. Demonstrations were given by Mary Lou Shanshan, "Making a Corsage," Bertha Craddock, "Making Brownies," Denise Rinkel, "Making Butter-scotch Bars," Pat Mudgett, "How to Thread a Sewing Machine," and Mary Moore, "How to Make Biscuits."

Betsy Heidinger moved that 20% of the club treasury be used to support the club candidate for queen.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Willner.

The Irish Set A Pace In Fashion

BY GAILE DUGAN
NEA Women's Editor

DUBLIN—(NEA)—In a quiet, eighteenth-century (thatched) house in Merrion Square, the Irish designer, Sybil Connolly, is turning out the fashions which have made her famous.

It's a far cry from New York's teeming, tense Seventh Avenue. In this beautiful, clean city with its masses of misty green in parks and squares, a designer can and does set her own pace.

But it still adds up to a full life, Sybil Connolly is quick to explain. Yet there's no sign of tension in a smooth face with the traditionally lovely Irish complexion framed by a cloud of prematurely gray hair.

"I do four collections a year," she says. "Two couture and two boutique. In addition, I'm modernizing this house, putting in electricity and plumbing. I expect to live in the top part of the house and use the lower rooms for workroom and shop. I'm told that this house once belonged to the Bishop of Ossory and that, in true Irish fashion, it's haunted."

A designer since 1952, Sybil Connolly has very definite ideas about clothes.

"I have yet to meet a man who likes the 'chemise' she says. 'Actually, what's called the chemise has been around for years in some form. As for the trapeze, I think it will be very difficult to wear. What looks good in a Paris collection may not look good at all in less expensive clothes.'

"My first love is the suit. Next, my favorite is the long dinner dress. I think a woman should look dreamy and romantic in the evening. And since I loathe cocktail parties, I'm not very fond of cocktail clothes."

The designer works entirely in the fabrics of Ireland. When you

'Real Cool' Ideas Help Ease Homemaker's Summer

BY KAY SHERWOOD

Resolute to be a hammock-happy homemaker this summer and not a wilted slave to housework?

It won't take much of a brainstorming session to analyze your routine to see where time and effort might be saved. Aim for clean, uncluttered rooms and cool, comfortable living.

Rather than worry about dust damage to fine upholstery or draperies, sidetrack the issue with readily washable substitutes. Otherwise, you'll be spending extra hours vacuum-cleaning fabrics that aren't in any case especially suited to hot weather lounging. If you can pull tailored slipcovers off of storage, you're lucky.

If not, and you have no intention of spending summer leisure time stitching up some, you might like to try the easy-to-make "tuck and pin" type that requires no stitching at all.

TERRY CLOTH is a favored fabric for this type of cover because of its undipped washability, dimensional stability and the lovely colors and patterns now available.

Terry cloth in towels and beach sheets is finished and ready for tucking and pinning; for special pieces terry cloth by the yard can be used. It will require hemming.

THE CITY APARTMENT homemaker who swears by this easy summer cover says a large-sized beach sheet covers her antique arm chair easily.

This summer, her color scheme

Sybil Connolly: In Dublin, fashion is created in an eighteenth-century haunted house in Merrion Square.

step from the great Irish Air Lines plant at Shannon, the first thing you're aware of is the beauty of the Irish tweeds that are on display at the airport. Sybil Connolly uses such tweeds in all weights from gossamer to coating. She also uses Irish wens and laces. The handmade lace is crocheted by 84 cottage workers in Donegal. Tweeds, too, are woven in cottages after the custom that prevailed in the Middle Ages.

Ireland has just two outstanding designers. The other is Irene Gilbert, who also lives and works in Dublin. The future of fashion in Ireland depends to a great extent, Sybil Connolly thinks, on the attitude of the young people.

"I wish I could impress upon them," she says, "that designing is not a glamor job. It's the most demanding work in the world and it takes a real knowledge of business as well as creative ability. Many of the young people who come to me can't even sew a straight seam!"

As for Sybil Connolly, she can't get into the business by way of managing a dress shop in Dublin. Today, her clothes are sold throughout the United States and 90 per cent of her work is done for export.

When you are using the bottom of a glass to flatten balls of cookie dough, it's well to dip the glass bottom in cold water frequently.

Butter crackers lightly and then sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese and paprika; place in a hot oven until the cheese melts. Cool crackers slightly before serving so they will have a chance to recrisp.

Material is white with gold lurex window pane checks. A needle-point footstool is protected by a gold-and-white-striped towel.

YOU CAN ALSO USE toweling as a substitute for drapery.

To avoid punching more holes for curtain rod hardware in window frames, use curtain rods secured in place by strong suction cups.

Edge curtains top and bottom with a harmonizing fringe to make them look more like curtains and less like refugees from the bathroom linen closet.

HOMEMAKERS in suburban developments where lawns are still in the rough-grazed stage have their special housekeeping problems.

For an assist here, look to the small, decorative, and practical carpet sweepers.

Those midgets in black and brass perform like their full-size counterparts.

Their added advantage is that they can be parked out in the room with fireplace accessories or near the entry door.

TO CUT DOWN on the tedious "pick-up" part of housekeeping, I shall box and hide at least half the miscellaneous toys and urge the children to play outdoors.

As much bric-a-brac as possible will be wrapped and put away.

Greene County Schools To Be Redecorated

CARROLLTON—The building committee for the Carrollton Grade School presented its plans for the painting of the classroom and halls and the completing of the work of lighting the classrooms, in the school building which were approved, by the Board of Education of the Carrollton Community School Unit at the meeting Monday evening.

Also approved by the board was some painting and repair work at the Eldred and Mt. Gilead schools. Awnings will be placed over the outside doors at Mt. Gilead to protect the doors and a section of the playground will be oiled for all weather use.

The bid of the Greene County Electric Company to install the lights at the new football field at the Carrollton High School was approved.

Gleaners Hold Memorial Service At Detmer Home

The Gleaners of the Chapin Christian church met at the home of Mrs. Nettie Detmer for the June meeting. The program opened with the Lord's prayer in unison. Mrs. Reba Willard read the 14th chapter of John for the Scripture lesson.

Roll call was answered by a Bible verse. Reports by the secretary and treasurer were accepted. During the business period the class voted to serve the lunch at the "William Northrup" sale on June 28 and to furnish cookies and cold drinks for the vacation Bible school. An offering for the leprosy mission was taken along with the birthday and regular offerings.

A memorial service for the deceased gleaners was in charge of Louise Eiler and Helene Schultz. F. W. Schultis sang "That Beautiful Year" and Mrs. Schultis gave a portion of John 14. Mable Bobbitt offered a prayer. As each deceased member's name was called a red rose was placed in a large vase. The class sang "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" and closed with "Blest be the Tie."

Resolutions were prepared and read by Mable Bobbitt and Helene Schultz in memory of Susan Baker. After lovely refreshments the class adjourned to meet again in July. The meeting will be held at the parsonage and will be a picnic dinner.

Guests were Mrs. L. A. Crown, the state secretary of C.W.F. Mrs. Crown made a talk on untold promotion. Mrs. McNally, National director of Evangelism in the U.S. and Canada also gave a short talk.

Rotarians At Roodhouse Hear Mason Campbell

ROODHOUSE—Mason Campbell, social science instructor in the local high school, furnished his own program for the Wednesday night meeting of the Rotary club speaking on "United States History As Taught in the Schools."

President Leroy Hopkins, who attended the Rotary International in Dallas, Texas, gave a few of the highlights of the meeting. Past District Governor Lloyd Coffman, who also attended, will make a detailed report at the next meeting of the local club.

Visiting Jacksonville Rotarians were Tom Cornish, Jim Bunting, Ben Parker, Roy Johnson, St. Louis, Mo., was also a guest.

The dinner was served by the Della Philathia class of the First Baptist church.

If you haven't a candy thermometer, test by pouring about half a teaspoon of the hot candy into a cup that's about three-quarters full of cold water.

Let's Go Birding

IN OUR GARDEN

By Emma Mae Leonhard
The subject of attracting the birds to your yards is like a circle—no beginning and no ending.

If we wish to encourage birds to use our gardens, we must consider their basic needs. What do birds need? They must have year-round food, water, shelter, and summer nesting places.

The more naturally that our gardens supply these, the more birds of different species we shall have. And we must remember that all birds don't eat the same food or build in the same kind of places.

Suppose that we are most interested in feeding the birds. There are very simple feeders, even a home-made shelf, which can be attached to the window sill; there are elaborate automatic-feeding ones which can be swung out on pulleys a distance from the window panes; there are still more elaborate glassed-in ones which are set in posts so that they will turn with the wind and shelter the birds while they are eating.

There are suet holders, feeding sticks, and pine-cones that can be used for suet and peanut butter, so important to the birds in winter. By the way, contrary to what many people believe, birds do appreciate salt, which peanut butter can supply. Fill the spaces in pine cones with peanut butter and watch the fun. These cones can be hung on the feeders or on the branch of a tree.

What Do They Eat?
What do our birds like in their feeders? Most of them relish sunflower seeds, a pretty expensive diet. However, corn, wheat, scratch feed, and baby-chick feed will tide many a bird over the cold days, and the House Sparrow will consume its share.

If there is snow or ice on the ground, a dish of grit, coarse sand, or finely crushed oyster or clam shells should be placed in the feeder or near it; the grain-eating birds need this to grind the food into a digestible form. This is very important.

Many grain-eating birds also like suet, meat scraps, nut meats, and peanut butter. Some, particularly the woodpeckers, eat only these kinds. If a Robin, Mockingbird, or Brown Thrasher happens to have stayed too long and winter has caught it, bread crumbs, finely ground toast, raisins, sliced apples, bananas, ground meat may save its life. These birds aren't naturally grain-eating even if they will desperately peck at seeds and try to get at their kernels.

What To Plant
Of course, the wisest method is to plant our gardens with trees, shrubs, plants, and flowers which provide year-round foods for birds, as well as nesting places and shelter. These can be ornamental to us as well as useful to the birds. Terres' recent book on "Songbirds in Your Garden" is full of helpful details on how to attract birds.

When should we run our bird feeders? Of course, in the winter, the leanest time of year. Birds can also be treacherous to spring with its sudden cold spells and snow storms. Beginning early in the fall attracts birds for winter feeding.

If we want to have the fun of watching the adult birds coax their young to the feeder and teach them how to use it, we must also continue during the summer. It looks almost like an all-year job, but it's worth the trouble and investment.

The popular lunchtime snack, the sandwich, was invented by the Earl of Sandwich in the 1700's. The Earl loved to play cards so much that he wouldn't stop to go to the dining room to eat. He had slices of meat, put between two slices of bread to eat while he continued playing.

Ashland Kindergartners Visit New Salem

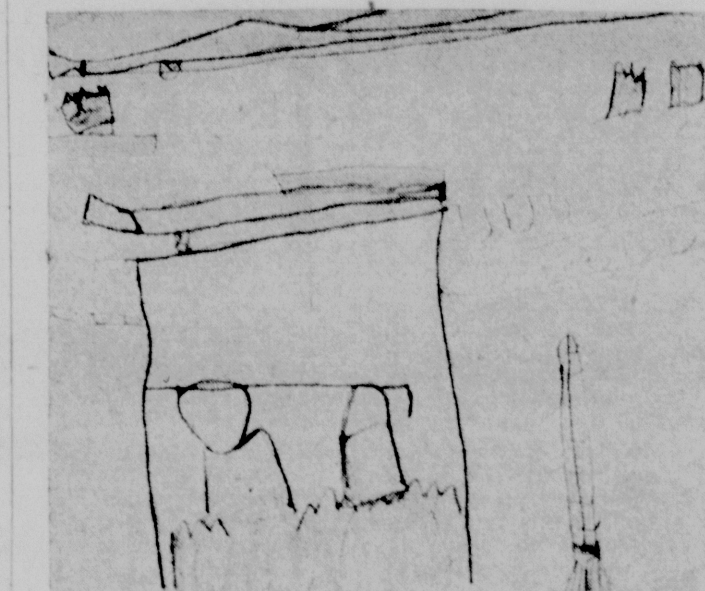

Some time ago the Ashland kindergartners had a train ride and drew pictures of their trip which you readers have seen from time to time on the Junior page. Now they have visited New Salem and again they have made drawings of the things they saw.

Above are three of the many fine drawings these boys and girls made. (More will be printed in future numbers of the Junior page.)

Marguerite Petefish, the teacher of the group, told them many things about this town which is built as nearly like the town was when Lincoln lived there as it can be. Several mothers also went with the young people on the trip to help them understand the interesting things they were learning about how people lived in the days when they cooked in the fireplace and lighted their homes with candles.

About The Atom

By Joseph A. Smith

Helium to Uranium U-238!

We learned earlier that like charges of electricity repel and unlike charges attract each other. No doubt someone would like to ask, "Then why don't two like charges in the same atom repel one another such as in the Helium atom with its two protons, two neutrons and two electrons?"

The answer is that there is a force which holds the atom nucleus together. The scientist has found that the total weight of all the particles in the Helium nucleus is a bit greater than the actual weight of the nucleus itself.

This tiny difference in weight was mass that at the earth's creation was turned into binding energy which holds our atoms together. The greater this binding energy the more stable the atom.

Oxygen Well Known
Perhaps the next best known atom is OXYGEN. While most Oxygen atoms consist of eight protons, eight neutrons and eight electrons, there are cases where this atom has one or more additional neutrons; these different combinations are isotopes.

As we said before, they have the same element number but a different atomic weight. Since this atom is a larger mass its binding force is greater due to the fact that more mass was converted into energy.

Big and Stable
The MOLYBDENUM atom is one of the most stable atoms again due to its large size (as atoms go). Its nucleus consists of 42 protons, 42 electrons and from 50 to 58 neutrons. Conversely lighter atoms are proportionally unstable — lighter the weight the less the binding energy and stability within the atom.

Now let's move to the larger atoms which have within themselves great power. Of first importance is the RADIUM atom. With its 88 protons, 88 electrons and 138 neutrons, it is so top heavy that it breaks down and casts off ALPHA, BETA and GAMMA particles, and it is naturally radioactive.

Mass is lost when the atom breaks down so energy is obtained in the process of destroying some mass. Actually very little mass is needed in the process of obtaining very large amounts of energy.

Two well known atoms today are these:
(1) URANIUM—Element No. 92 (protons), contains 146 neutrons, while its atomic weight is 238.
(2) PLUTONIUM—Element No. 94 (protons), contains 145 neutrons, and its atomic weight is 239.

As we know, they're both used in atomic furnaces, motors, as well as atom bombs.

An American Every One Should Know—

Sitting Bull

By Walter B. Hendrickson

Fights For Freedom

Sitting Bull was a famous Indian chief who led his Sioux tribesmen in the massacre of General Custer's troops in 1876. He was born in 1831 near what is now the town of Bullhead in South Dakota.

During his boyhood he had the nickname "Slow", not because he was at all stupid, but because he was very deliberate and thoughtful about everything he did.

He grew up in a time when he and his people were free. No white man was there, and they could go where they pleased to hunt buffalo, upon which they depended for food, clothing, and shelter.

When "Slow" was five years old he rode with his mother on her horse, sitting behind her and putting his arms around her waist. When he was ten years old he had a pony of his own, and with the other boys of the tribe, he learned all the skills an Indian needed to make a living: to ride, to shoot, to hunt, and to fight.

Gets Warrior Name
When he was fourteen years old he earned his place among the men of the tribe through his success in fighting the Indian enemies of the Sioux and he received his name "Sitting Bull". This warrior name came from the buffalo, the animal so important to the Sioux Indians that Sitting Bull felt highly honored when he was given a name associated with the buffalo.

As Sitting Bull grew older, the land in the West that the Sioux and other western Indians called their own was desired by the Americans. In the defense of his homeland, Sitting Bull fought against the soldiers that were sent to protect the settlers. In fight after fight the Indians were defeated, and some of the chiefs decided to surrender to the life of reservation Indians, where they were not free to hunt where they wished, and must often accept food from the government.

Wants To Be Free
But Sitting Bull refused to surrender. He wanted to be free to live his Indian life, and he felt that the white man had no right to take the Indian's land, even if they paid for it. Neither did he believe that the Indians had any right to sell it.

It was because of these convictions that he led one of the last bands of free Indians in the attack on General George A. Custer's men at the Battle of the Little Big Horn (Custer's Massacre) on June 26, 1876, in which all of Custer's men were killed.

It was a great victory for Sitting Bull and his people, but it did not stop the advance of the white men. Soldiers were sent to capture him, and he and a few followers escaped to Canada, but the Canadian Mounted Police would not let him stay, and he went back to the United States and surrendered.

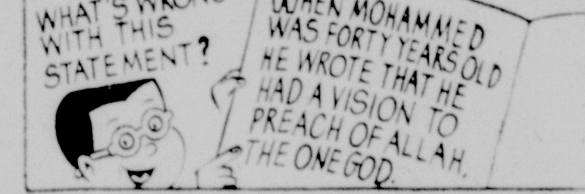

He was placed on a reservation, leading a lonely and dissatisfied life, finally getting into trouble with the reservation authorities. He was shot and killed by soldiers, who probably had no good reason for doing it.

We may disagree with Sitting Bull, and think that he, like other Indians, was cruel and barbarous. Yet we must admire him and his people, who fought so stoutly, and so cunningly, for the things in which they believed.

Flower Of The Month—

Sky Blue For June

By Emma Mae Leonhard

For the third year we are continuing our custom of selecting a flower of the month—an appropriate flower, we hope, for our own area.

The first year we just had to choose the rose for June; no one would have tolerated any other choice. For the second June we ventured to submit the flat rosettes of the white Queen Anne's lace of the wild carrot, and we heard no murmurs of criticism, not even against a Queen.

Can we find another appropriate flower of the month for June? Of course!

June is a month of flowers, even of wild flowers. We still have several kinds from which to choose. We shall continue to enjoy the reds, pinks, and yellows of the lovely rose; we shall still appreciate the snowy white of Queen Anne's Lace.

Loveliest Of All
However, for this year, we shall reveal in the sky-blue of the Spiderwort. Yes, blood red, snow white, grass green are some of nature's positive colors; but sky blue is the loveliest color of all. And what other wild flower in June can we better associate with sky blue than the Spiderwort?

You may think of Spiderwort as merely a weed monopolizing the moist ditches below railroad embankments. It does take over these ditches and many more places like open hillsides and sandy spaces wherever man's mower or sythe has not leveled the growth of vegetation.

In fact, it can be almost anywhere in the wild sections. Although it isn't popularly cultivated in gardens, it does sometimes creep into some of them.

Dewy Lilies
Early in the morning, when the dew is still clinging to every blade of grass, ribbons and waves of sky-colored Spider Lilies, as the Spiderwort can well be called, stretch or run along the roadside embankments.

By noon these sky-blue flowers have faded away into a drop of purple; the flower stems are already curling down while the seeds are beginning to form. However, don't be worried that these blue ribbons or waves of Spiderwort will soon fade away.

There are many buds in reserve. The next morning more buds have opened; the roadsides are again bordered with masses of sky-blue. The delicate flowers are three-petaled. From the center of each flower extend six furrowed stamens of deep purple-blue topped with bright yellow-orange anthers. The tall stems, which support the clusters of flowers and buds, are jointed. From these joints spring narrow, tapering, and alternate leaves.

These tall erect stems lift their bouquets of sky-blue above the green sod, or join the taller blooming grasses and weeds and decorate them with ribbons of sky blue during the last of May and particularly during June.

Hunting With A Camera

By Joe Smith

Hints For Hunters

Many people who like wild creatures of nature in their home grounds would like to see them scamper around free, happy and quite alive.

Their "trigger" kicks open and closes a camera shutter from a well concealed hiding place. When done, they steal silently on to another spot to shoot another nature picture.

Yes, it's fun, very interesting and rewarding in lasting pictures of animals in their natural surroundings. But not as easy as it may at first seem.

We should perhaps now first cover a bit on stalking your game. You must sneak up on it unseen and unheard; human odor can also give you away.

Camouflage Helps
Khaki clothing is best to blend in with a wooded area. White clothing is worn in winter by ski troopers. Above all, make the color of clothing blend with the area in which you plan to hunt.

A good scout learns to hunt ABSOLUTELY STILL, at times for as much as a half hour. After a time, if you're in an apparently deserted meadow, wild life will stir about it. It's now that one must exert every effort to remain motionless so as not to frighten the wild life away.

The Boy Scout makes his first effort at stalking by following snow trails, sandy beach or muddy edges of marshland trails.

If a trail is lost, he starts out, things are already sick. I must

Jim's Big Surprise

By D. W. Hendrickson

Part 2: No Way Out

Jim and his mother have come out to read to his father a letter telling that his uncle plans to take his aunt on a trip to recuperate from an illness and to have her son, Ted Jr., visit Jim's family.

They sat down to listen to the letter. Duke, the collie, lay down at their feet with head up and ears forward as if he were listening along, too.

"Sounds like a good plan to me," said Mr. Kendall, "if it won't make too much work for you, tell them to send Ted Jr. and his dog right along."

"And what about me?" Jim said glumly.
"You?"

"Jim doesn't think he and Ted Jr. will have a very good time together," Mrs. Kendall explained. "Prize understatement of the year," groaned Jim. "What Mom should have said is, I expect to have 'vacation fun' hit a new low with that jer— that kid around."

"Why, what's the matter with Ted, Jim?"
"Aw, he doesn't swim, play ball, ride a bike, or anything else. What can you do with a fellow like that?"

How About Checkers?
"Well, I remember rightly you two played checkers when Ted was here overnight last summer," said Jim's father.

"Yeah, and he beat me so easy, it wasn't even fun for him," Jim groaned and stretched out limply. Then he sat up suddenly and grinned. "Say, I could go to Scout camp for a couple of weeks." "You've just come back from camp." "So what? I could go again."

"Not on our budget you couldn't, and you have spent all your money." "Well, I could use the money I have made mowing lawns."

"Jim," his mother objected. "You know you can't be away while Ted's here."

"How about him going to camp with me? If I mixed him with some other kids, maybe he wouldn't be so hard to swallow."

No Way Out
"And I stay home and take care of the two dogs," Mom commented. "No, Jim, I'm sorry but there's no way out of it."

"Don't say I didn't try," said Jim getting up. "So long, folks, I'd better get over to Miss Haskins to mow her lawn."

Jim's mother put a delaying hand on his arm. "Now promise me, Jim, that you'll be nice to Ted. After all he will be our guest and—"

"And he's had a tough time with his mother in the hospital and all," interrupted Jim, putting his hand on his mother's shoulder. "Sure, Mom, I know. I feel sorry for the little kid, too. So relax. Mom, I'll treat him like a visiting prince if it kills me."

As he started across the yard with Duke at his heels, he paused to call back over his shoulder. "And it probably will," before he disappeared around the corner of the house.

In widening circles until the trail is found again, or looks for bits of rumpled grass. Bear in mind that the senses of smell and hearing of wild life are keener than ours.

It's wise to know your game's habits as well as where it lives or likes to feed and get water. Always move against the wind and with slow, silent footsteps upon the forward part of one's foot.

Next we will go hunting with our camera.

Jeannie's Daddy had been teaching her about ticks, when they had a real tick problem. Some of the cattle had been bitten by ticks and were dying of Texas fever.

Daddy told Jeannie and Mother-dear that way back in 1890 a scientist named Theobald Smith had discovered that ticks caused Texas fever. He discovered, too, that Southern cattle rarely die of it, for they begin getting tick bites when they are little calves and they grow so fast that they get well and become immune.

"But these Northern cattle just can't take it," Daddy said.

Jeannie said, "Can't we vaccinate the calves so they will be a little sick as I was after I was vaccinated?"

"I am thinking of that," he said. "It isn't a vaccination we need now; however, these poor things are already sick. I must

TRAIN WITHOUT TRACKS—Designed for the atom age, this scale model (3/4 inch = 1 foot) of a serpentine land monster is put through its paces near the R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., plant at Longview, Tex. The 450-foot-long vehicle, with all-wheel drive for its 52 wheels, would be suitable to be powered by either atomic reactors or conventional types of engines. The company, world's only builder of "rubber-tired trains," constructed the electrically powered model to prove out the practicability of the machine. * Large toy dump truck to right gives some idea of how big the full-sized version would be.

Woman With Dislike For Speed Traps Triumphs Over Police

New Berlin Girl At Music Camp Receives Honor

NEW BERLIN — Miss Judy Hughes, who attended the Egyptian Music Camp at DuQuoin last week on the only scholarship given by the Music Department of 21st District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, was chosen by addition as a member of the popular girls' trio at camp.

The trio sings with the dance band, which rehearses an hour and a half each day and plays for the formal dance at camp each week. This band is under the direction of Les Rosenstengel, high school music director of Desloge High School of Desloge, Mo.

Judy, who graduated with the Class of '58 of Community Unit 16 high school, New Berlin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hughes. She was entered in the 21st District competition by the New Berlin Woman's Club Music department.

The annual Hudson school reunion was held on Sunday at the fairgrounds building, New Berlin, with 38 present. A basket dinner was held at noon, followed by a program which began with a song and dance by Perry DeRosear, followed by a piano solo, Paul Lewis; piano solo, Juan DeRosear; to dance, Patricia Lewis; piano solo, Douglas Lewis, and piano selections by Ralph Perry and Mrs. Francis Meiers. It was decided to discontinue holding the reunion yearly.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Don Vincent and Shari, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phillips, Mrs. Florence Wills, Mrs. Will Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fairweather, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Huffaker, Mrs. Mattie Dietrich, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanter, Oscar Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lewis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Meiers, Mrs. Leila Reynolds, Mrs. Naomi DeRosear, Juan and Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Colburn, Gary and Kent.

Meets June 19

day, June 19, at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Elizabeth Brehm with the executive board as assisting hostesses.

Members are asked to bring their own table service.

The Woman's Organization of the Bates Presbyterian church has been postponed until Thursday, June 19. Mrs. Ernest King will lead devotions and Mrs. H. L. Kintner will be in charge of the program.

Hostesses at the 2 p.m. meeting will be Mrs. Leigh Cox, Mrs. Charles Winkler and Mrs. William Dippel.

Pvt. Donald Case Places First In Machinist Course

GREENFIELD — Superintendent of the Water Works and Mr. Sylvester A. Case of Greenfield have received the following letter from W. M. Smith, Jr., Lt. Col. Ord, Corps, Acting Assistant Commandant, U. S. Army Ordnance School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland:

"It is a pleasure to inform you that your son, Private Donald L. Case, has distinguished himself by being the honor student in the Machinist Course here at the U. S. Army Ordnance School. His standing as first out of fifteen students is a record in which you can indeed take pride.

It is anticipated that the academic proficiency your son has demonstrated will prove to be a valuable asset not only to him in his career in the Army, but in civilian life as well. I am sure that the fine guidance he has received from you played a major role in enabling him to attain this high standing."

Members of HJ Chapter, PEO

entertained their husbands at dinner Sunday evening, June 13 at the Virginia Country Club. Mrs. R. B. Ellis was hostess at a luncheon meeting of HJ Chapter 4 at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, June 5. Mrs. George T. Parks, Mrs. Robert Morrow, Mrs. Ray Stout, Mrs. C. B. Guy and Mrs. Ellis were members of the committee in charge of arrangements.

A Formal Ballgown In Yellow Cotton

This elegant and formal ballgown in yellow flower embroidered cotton organdie is by designer James Galanos. He was recently presented the Sixth Annual Cotton Award. The gown has a three-tiered bow falling free at the back to form a sweeping train.—By GAIL DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A 22-year-old sign-carrying Dayton housewife who dislikes radar speed zones because she thinks they're "sneaky," won a victory over police Wednesday and a dollar bill besides.

But not before some good quotes involving taxpayers, dinner dishes, minding the children, and citizenship got on the record.

Mrs. Majorie Steinway, mother of two children, was arrested May 23 and charged with interfering with duties of police officers.

Patrolmen accused her of standing in the street, up ahead of their speed zone, and holding a sign reading "speed trap ahead."

At that time she told officers she had always taught her children to be fair and she considered radar "sneaky."

When she appeared in Municipal Court Wednesday she was met by City Prosecutor William P. Keane who handed her a dollar bill and a formal release.

The release read in part: "I, Majorie Steinway, for $1 and other valuable considerations, do hereby release and fully discharge all members of the Dayton Police Department . . . from all actions and claims growing out of my arrest . . . It was explained the words "and other valuable considerations" was just legal phraseology.

Capl. C. W. Martin, head of the traffic section, said he agreed Mrs. Steinway had a right to wear the sign wherever the radar squad went. And on reflection, he added, it occurred to him she was actually aiding police. All the police want to do is slow down speeders, not arrest them, he said.

"However," Capl. Martin concluded, "it's my personal opinion she ought to be home minding the children and washing the dishes."

Later, told of Capt. Martin's remarks, Mrs. Steinway shot back: "Tell the captain if he ever finds my dishes dirty or my children neglected, I'll lay down my signs forever."

"If people don't wake up pretty soon, we're going to be not citizens, but only taxpayers."

Friends, Patrons Honor Retiring Ashland Postman

ASHLAND—An estimated crowd of over 100 patrons, former patrons and friends gathered Sunday evening at Yatesville Community house to honor their rural carrier, Homer L. Lewis, who has served Route 1 since Oct. 16, 1910. A postluck supper was enjoyed by all present.

Many were present at the time Homer started serving the route. They are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stice, Mr. and Mrs. Coy Stice, Mr. and Mrs. Hardin Lamkular, Mrs. Genevieve Nelson, Harvey Shafer, Amos Lamkular, Glen and Gertrude Riley, Weir Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Viands, Mrs. Carroll Robinson, Mrs. George Hibbs and Mrs. E. H. Saltonstall.

A mail box with the flag up had Mr. Lewis' name on it and was placed on a table in front of him. When all had eaten, he was asked to get his mail from the box. Mr. Lewis opened the box and took out a package which contained a wrist watch which is a gold self-winding 23-jewel Bulova and was given him by patrons and friends.

Mrs. Lewis thanked those present and did quite a bit of reminiscing mentioning the fact that one of his patrons was also his teacher for more than four years at the Jordanville school. He also said that he had been delivering mail to the sixth generation—children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stice.

Entertainment was in charge of Mrs. J. T. Adkins, master of ceremonies and included singing by the audience, accompanied by the Thomas trio, who also sang and played several selections. Songs were sung by Marilyn and David Clemens and a tap dance given by Georgia Ann Hibbs.

A few remarks were made by A. Paul Anderson, who was one of Mr. Lewis' early friends, and has been one of his patrons for the past 23 years.

Scientist Suggests Solar Sailboat For Space Travel

NEW YORK (AP)—A sailboat cruise around the sun?

Why not? Sails may become one of our best ways of getting around in space, suggests a Columbia University physics professor.

The enormous sails would billow out with sunpower—the pressure of sunlight instead of wind.

There would be no fuel worries either, because space is filled with the rays of the Sun.

So reports Dr. Richard L. Garwin, also a staff member of the IBM Watson Laboratory, in a recent issue of the American Rocket Society's technical journal, Jet Propulsion.

The sails that Dr. Garwin suggests would probably sink any earthbound sailboat. For a 20-pound satellite, Dr. Garwin estimates a sail as large as a football field would be needed.

The dish-shaped sail would be made of a plastic film, nearly a tenth as thick as the food wrapping films used in kitchens. One side of the film would be aluminized to reflect the Sun's rays.

In the world we live in, where we are constantly pushing our way through resisting atmosphere or air, the pressure of the Sun's rays—called photons—is too slight to make itself felt.

Solar power wouldn't help in the earth's atmosphere. But it could boost a satellite—already in orbit—to the speed necessary to escape the earth's gravity and travel to another planet.

In the vacuum of space, even the slightest push is big because there is so little resistance to movement. The longer the push is applied, the faster the speed that builds up.

This kind of solar power has one drawback: It is strongest closest to the Sun. As you would approach a distant planet of the solar system, such as Pluto, you would gradually lose push.

For the nearer planets like Mars and Venus, the solar sail would work best.

A trip to Venus and back to Earth could be made in less than a year with one sail suggested by Dr. Garwin. Mars would take about six months each way.

The solar sail would travel in a spiral course both to and from the planet he visits—setting his sail at the required angle to carry him in steadily decreasing circles to his destination.

To Boys State

"DAVID BONE"

In addition to four previously named boys from Jacksonville who will attend Boys State this year June 22-29 at the State Fair Grounds in Springfield, another local youth, David Bone, 16, will be in attendance.

David is sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Jacksonville. He is a member of the JHS chapter, National Honor Society, was president of his freshman class, varsity basketball star three years, had one year track. Placed second twice in YMCA State Swimming contest and this year was junior class co-chairman for the JHS prom. He attends First Presbyterian church and is a member in the Youth Fellowship there. He is also very active in Scout work.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Bone, 268 Webster avenue.

The other four boys from Jacksonville to attend Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion, are John E. Fitzpatrick, John Sutphen, Gary H. Balise and Arthur Twyford.

Undiluted canned consommé and bouillon both make an excellent base for a curry sauce for poultry, meat or shrimps.

By AL VERMEER

By WILSON SCRUGGS

By MILTON CANIFF

IT was exactly 10 the next morning when the secretary again ushered me in to see the dictator of the Monican Republic.

There was a subtle difference in his attitude. He was beginning to think that they had been wrong. I had said that I was there to find a manuscript; I had apparently found it and was now leaving. There had been nothing in any of the reports to indicate that I was interested in Moreno, except perhaps that I had once been with the sister of the rebel in prison. But she was a pretty girl and that was understandable. I showed him the manuscript, commenting on the fact that someone had put a cover on it. He leafed through it, feeling the paper and peering at the script. "It is certainly very old," he said. "Perhaps it is what it seems to be. I am almost sorry that I gave you permission to take it away, but I did not think you would really find it."

"I am flying back today with Senator Perrola," I said.

"Yes, I know," he said. "Come. I will show you the rest of my museum."

I followed him to the other room, glancing at my watch. It was 10:15. I held the manuscript firmly beneath my arm.

He started at the front and began to work back, showing me the things in the cases. Most of them were personal, meaningless things.

Then the door opened and there was the secretary. "I am sorry, Generalissimo," he said, "but there is a phone call from General Hodges. I knew you'd want to take it."

The old man had started to frown at the interruption, but the name cleared the frown away. "You will excuse me, Senator March," he said.

The secretary obviously wasn't going to leave. He walked back to join me. I saw him glance at the table where the Moreno manuscript was and a worried look came over his face.

"This table," he said, walking over to it, "contains things which have been threats against the Generalissimo." As he reached it, he casually turned the Moreno manuscript over so that the title wouldn't show.

"Yes," I said casually. I moved down until I was standing beside him. "The Generalissimo told me about them the other day." I leaned forward to peer at one of the glass doors. There was a large gold cup back of it. "What is that?"

THE secretary seemed relieved at having the conversation move away from the table. He went to the glass case with alacrity and opened the door.

It took three seconds. As he reached for the door, I took the manuscript from beneath my arm and exchanged it for the one on the table. I tucked the new manuscript under my arm with the title next to my body. Then I was over beside the clerk as he took the cup from the case.

"The Generalissimo won't this cup at the International Horse Show 10 years ago," he said.

He held it up for my examination.

During the next few minutes the secretary dived on and on about the things in the museum, but I barely heard him. I merely made the proper sounds of awe whenever he stopped. I wanted to get out of there more than I'd ever wanted anything else in my life. I felt like starting to run. Instead, I followed him around and made noises.

"I believe that is everything," the secretary finally said.

Just then the dictator came back. My mouth was dry as he entered the room. His gaze merely swept idly around the room and came back to me.

"He was the commandant of the military school my youngest son attends," he said. "He called to tell me what excellent progress Rafael is making. I am pleased. Did Leonardo show you the rest of the museum?"

"Everything," I said. "This is certainly a great monument to your life and work."

I resisted the impulse to run and walked slowly out of the place with him. In the corridor he went one way, I went the other. I went out past numerous guards, holding my breath as I passed each one. I reached Luis and the car feeling weak.

THE first thing I did was to get in the back, unfasten my suitcase and put the manuscript inside.

"Perrola is going to fly me back," I told Luis, "so this is our goodbye." I pulled out some money and separated $325. "Here is your pay for today, Luis, and a bonus. I suggest you consider yourself working for me for at least another day. It is true, of course, that you might find someone willing to pay more for the things you could say, but I don't advise it."

"Don't worry, my friend and patron," he said reproachfully. "Would I do such a thing to you?"

The plane was already out on the field, the motors idling, when we arrived. Perrola and I climbed into the plane and Perrola nodded through the windshield to the man. A moment later, he pushed the throttle forward and the big plane started rolling across the field, picking up speed.

THE U.S. Customs men were more thorough than those in the Monican Republic. They found the guns, but I had a permit. We got into a small argument about the manuscript because it was written in Spanish, but Dr. Moreno's address was New York University on the flyleaf. Perrola was with another inspector and didn't hear any of this.

OUT OF THE PAST

SUMMIT, N. J. (AP)—The schooner Iris of New Bedford, Mass., plied the Atlantic and Pacific some 29 years before the American Civil War. She was captained by George B. Spooner.

Spooner's granddaughter, Mrs. J. M. Rose, has the ship's log. Much of the Iris' time was devoted to whaling but the men weren't too busy to stay out of trouble.

On one occasion Spooner wrote: "At 4 p.m. a disturbance arose between the mate and one of the boatswains. He gave some most abusive language. Likewise, he clinched the captain and struck at the mate. At 5 p.m. put the gentleman in irons and put him in the run for safekeeping. It is hard but fair."
